America's Defense Department Will Be Streamlined—

IKE SIGNS; MORE AUTHORITY

Power Limit Fixed For President

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower Wednesday signed a bill giving him much but not all of the authority he sought to streamline the nation's defenses and tighten conrtol over the separate armed services.

He said in a statement the measure represents "a major advance in our organization for defense."

The President and secretary of defense under the law will not have as sweeping reorganization powers as Eisenhower proposed. Congress insisted on keeping a veto that can be exercised by either house over any change in the military jobs assigned to any of the services. For example, the role of the Marine Corps or Naval Air could not be reduced without Congress' consent.

Door To Congress Open

Moreover, the lawmakers overruled Eisenhower's protest of "legalized insubordination" and kept in the law present provisions allowing any secretary or uniformed head of a service to come straight to Congress with his problems.

But the role of the individual service secretaries was reduced in one important respect: They will no longer figure in the chain of command over special fighting forces set up under the joint chiefs of staff and consisting of selected units of one or more services.

Following Eisenhower's blueprint almost exactly, Congress provided that authority for such forces will go direct from the secretary of defense, acting for the President, and the joint chiefs to the commanders in the field. Moreover, no single service could withdraw its units from such a force without consent of the secretary of defense.

Joint Staff Increased

To make such command effective, Congress authorized increasing the joint staff of the joint chiefs from 210 to 400 officers, with operating as well as planning functions.

Another major centralizing move was creation of the post of director of defense research and engineering. The director will rank just after the secretaries of the services and presumably be empowered to settle quickly any rivalries over use of futuristic weapons.

Although some lawmakers had talked of sharp cuts in the huge Pentagon organization, the law as finally enacted follows the moderate recommendations of the administration.

U.S. Seeks Broad U.N. Program For Mideast

United Nations, N.Y. (AP)—The United States will urge a broad stabilization program for the Middle East when the U.N. General Assembly gathers in emergency session next week.

Informed sources said Wednesday the United States will push a plan that calls for handing over to the United Nations a key role in keeping the Middle East stable. Details have not been worked out.

The 11-nation Security Council meets Thursday afternoon (3 p.m. EDT) to consider rival U.S. and Soviet proposals for the emergency session on the Middle East.

The council is expected to act without delay. The U.S. proposal is given the best chance of winning the required 7 votes. The veto does not apply.

Tuesday Meet

While U.N. rules say an emergency session must be convened within 24 hours after the Council acts, most delegates believe that the 81-nation assembly will not be under way until next Tuesday.

The White House said President Eisenhower is considering whether to deliver the opening speech for the United States at the Assembly. Eisenhower told his news conference he wants the Assembly to discuss the whole range of Mideast problems.

The United States believes that a constructive approach will win the most support, especially from nations who do not want to see the assembly turn into a bitter propaganda exchange between East and West.

Informants said the U.S. wants to deal with at least 3 major problems in the Middle East—Arab nationalism, economic development, and the Palestine refugee situation.

Aggression

They declared the United States would certainly bring up its charges that indirect aggression is a grave threat to Middle East peace, but that major emphasis would be on a long-range solution.

This was the situation as the Security Council prepared to meet on the emergency session call:

The United States has on the agenda a resolution calling for an emergency session to deal with recommendations on the situation in Lebanon.

U.S. spokesman say this is broad enough to take in all aspects of the Middle East problem. Debate in the Council already has ranged over the entire situation.

U.S. Forces

The Soviet Union wants the emergency session called to consider withdrawal of U.S. forces from Lebanon and British troops from Jordan.

The United States claims priority for its resolution, and there was little doubt it will be voted on first.

Britain gave outright support to the U.S. resolution but France only grudging approval. A French Foreign Ministry spokesman said his country would go along, but expressed doubt that the emergency session would settle anything.

Climbers Die

Merano, Italy (UPI)—Three German climbers, including a girl of 16, fell to their deaths on Mount Ortles near here. Italian rescue teams found the bodies on a glacier.

Police said the dead were Wilhelm Koehler, 52, Ursula Forpruck, 16, and her brother Karl Forpruck, 26.

McCook Bank Shortage $201,933

The alleged shortage at the First National Bank of McCook, Neb., has been officially disclosed as $201,933.50 by federal investigators.

The investigation has resulted in federal complaint against Max Billesbach, 46, of McCook, and Shirley A. Clark, 31, of Denver, Colo. and McCook.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Dean Wallace confirmed Wednesday that the shortage total was disclosed at a U.S. commissioner's hearing at Denver.

The commissioner has ordered Miss Clark removed under $2500 appearance bond to the jurisdiction of the U.S. District Court at Lincoln.

The former McCook bank bookkeeper is accused of attempting to defraud the bank through a false entry of $23,305 on Aug. 5, 1957.

Billesbach, former cashier and bank employe, is charged with embezzling $7,154.51 on a preliminary complaint. He has posted $20,000 bond pending further proceedings.

A spokesman for the McCook bank said that all bank deposits are fully covered by bond and federal deposit insurance.

Wallace said the alleged $201,933.50 shortage as of June 28 this year covers a period of approximately eight years.

Federal authorities say the Billesbach and Clark cases are linked and that the woman apparently "helped cover" for Billesbach in some of the manipulations.

Reports Of Storm Damage Mount; Water Still Rising

Damage estimates from Tuesday's rain, hail and winds mounted Wednesday as reports from communities isolated for hours after the storm filtered in.

Along with damage reports came warnings against localized flooding from swollen creeks plus forecasts for further scattered thunderstorms Thursday.

Ithaca in southern Saunders County remained virtually marooned Wednesday night as Silver and Wahoo creeks overflowed to block Hwy. 63, the main road into town. Power and some telephones were restored to service, however.

There was a report that one farm house south of Ithaca was destroyed by winds Tuesday night, but it was impossible to reach the building due to high waters.

Ithaca residents maintained an all-night vigil on the dikes erected to protect the town from Wahoo Creek. Earlier the dikes were strengthened with sandbags to protect the town from the raging stream which spread out of its banks to widths of almost a mile in that area.

The swollen Wahoo Creek is carrying runoff from Silver, Sand and Duck Creeks which were all out of their banks from 3 to 4 inch rains.

Heavy hail damage with estimates ranging up to "total loss" of corn crops were reported to police officials in Wahoo. Major damage occurred in the area between Mead and Wahoo and extended west of Wahoo.

Farmer Warren Rickli, two miles north of Murdock, is having more than a little trouble providing himself a crib and granary.

Late in June, fire destroyed Rickli's crib and granary.

Almost Finished

He set about to replace the destroyed structure and was within two weeks of completing the $11,000 facility when Tuesday night's violent weather developed.

Wind tore the structure apart.

Rickli also estimated that 75% of his corn crop was destroyed by hail.

Several farms east of Murdock also received heavy hail damage. At the F. A. Brunkow farm corn and soybeans were badly damaged, and at neighboring farms building damage was also reported. Funnel clouds were sighted by farmers in that area.

The Elmwood area reported only light hail damage, with high winds doing most of the damage in that area.

At Douglas in southwestern Otoe County, Mrs. Harold Boldt, wife of the Douglas mayor, said that a swath of hail northeast and southwest of town stripped corn and completely ruined some crops.

Farms Hard Hit

Winds damaged a barn on the Boldt farm and Russell Hunt farm near town, and wrecked a [illegible] and killed one cow on the [illegible]arrell Divley farm one mile north of Douglas.

Several farm buildings and the farmhouse roof was damaged at the Harold Bergman residence, and a garage was destroyed and a car badly damaged at the LeRoy Karnatz home. Another barn was flattened near the Douglas rock quarry.

Flooding was reported lessening in the Otoe County area by Wednesday night with Hwy. 2 and 3 re-opened after almost 10 hours. Still flooded but remaining open to one-way traffic east of Wahoo Wednesday night were U.S. 30A, 77 and 92.

State Maintenance Engineer James McMeekin reported the following roads closed late Wednesday:

State 63 between Ashland and Swedeburg, high water.

State Spur 150, Louisville to South Bend, 2 bridge approaches out.

State 370 west of Papillion, bridge out.

No evacuations were reported at any of the communities late Wednesday but residents remained alert as rising waters and more rain threatened.

At Waverly where strong wind damage had been reported, local farm crop losses also were added to the toll. Scattered hail did considerable damage, especially to corn.

Officials of the Eastern Nebraska Public Power District serving the 7-county area mainly hit by Tuesday night's storm reported power restoration to all areas. Main damage to power lines occurred north of Unadilla where 12 poles and many lines were lost in a 10-mile are.

Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. officials reported that most service had been restored to their areas by late Wednesday.

At the height of the storm 2,818 phones were out, and long distance service to 9 communities severed. At Ashland 590 telephones, over 50% were out.

At Wahoo, 35% of the telephone service was disrupted and all farm lines in the Ithaca area were out. Cable trouble at Ashland—apparent center of the storm damage—caused some delay in service resumption.

Early Wednesday a car carrying 3 women went off Hwy. 2 near Dunbar but no injuries resulted. The car was pushed back on the road by about 2 dozen teenagers.

Ashland clean-up operations continued with major damage including roofing ripped from Ashland school causing water damage to the interior; roof blown off the Gene Grimm house leaving the 6-member family homeless; and cement block and brick walls collapsed at the construction of a cement plant building.

High waters also disrupted train service in the storm area Wednesday. A minor washout halted traffic on the Missouri Pacific's Springfield - Louisville - Weeping Water branch line. Burlington tracks near Dunbar were flooded for several hours slowing traffic

Ashland's 5.60 inch downpour topped the torrential rains sweeping across east central Nebraska Tuesday night. Other precipitation totals as reported by the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the U.S. Weather Bureau included:

Electronic Vigil On Alaskan Front

Where is the "closest" U.S. front in the cold war? It's the Seward Peninsula of Alaska where for 7 months of the year, the 50 miles between that new state and Siberia freezes over and the continents join. Two electronic miracles, White Alice, radio telephone system, and Dew Line, radar warning network, keep constant vigil on this icebound front. Burris Jenkins Jr. gives Star readers a firsthand look at these defense marvels in the 4th of a series of 6 Alaska articles on page 9.

AF MOON-SHOT MISSILE TESTED

. . . Mighty Thor Blasts Off

Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP)—A mighty Thor intermediate range ballistic missile, which will pack the big punch for the Air Force's first moon rocket, blasted toward space Wednesday in another test of guidance and power.

The 65-foot Douglas missile was fired for a second time from a tactical launching pad, the same Equipment that would be used under operational conditions.

The test also gave Douglas Aircraft technicians a final preview of the Thor's space performance prior to the heralded moon-launching tentatively set for Aug. 17.

The probable moon rocket—a 3-stage Thor-Able—stood in an adjacent service tower.

The Thor, which is expected to become a NATO defense weapon in Europe by December, surged aloft with billows of yellow flame and smoke.

18th Firing

It was the 18th Thor fired in the Air Force's ambitious IRBM flight test program which began in January, 1957. About 11 of the tests have been considered complete successes.

The lift-off appeared to be perfect — a complete departure from the latest Thor shoot July 26 when the missile burst apart over the Atlantic a minute and 10 seconds after it was airborne.

The Air Force announced 4 minutes after the launching that preliminary range instrumentation reports indicated the Thor flight was normal.

Ag Bill Hopes Killed

GOP, Big-City Demos Oust House Plan

Washington (AP) — Republicans and big-city Democrats teamed Wednesday to defeat a House farm bill and speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) announced that killed any hope for farm legislation this year.

"We have been up and down this hill as many times as I care to go this year," he said tartly, putting blame for the defeat on the Republicans.

The Senate already has passed a farm bill that has Eisenhower administration backing. The House bill would have lowered price supports and provided some administration goals.

But Rayburn said Republicans twice before this year had teamed up to kill Democratic-backed agricultural proposals and he had had enough. President Eisenhower vetoed one bill and the House voted not even to take up another.

210-186 Vote

The bill came up for a House vote Wednesday under a take-it-or-leave-it procedure prohibiting amendments and calling for a two-thirds majority for passage.

The rollcall produced a 210-186 majority in favor of the bill—but that was 54 votes short of the required two-thirds and thus was defeated.

Voting for the bill were 172 Democrats and 38 Republicans. Against it were 38 Democrats and 148 Republicans.

Republican leader Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts called farm legislation essential and suggested the House substitute the Senate bill.

He called Wednesday's House vote nonpartisan and described it as an expression of House desire for an opportunity "to accept the Senate bill without amendments or with such amendments as the House may wish to favor."

The bill could be brought up again under more liberal procedure that also would permit amendments. But Rayburn's statement apparently put an end to such speculation.

SPLIT 3-1

Washington (AP) — Nebraska congressmen split 3-1 Wednesday when the House defeated a general farm bill. Representatives Cunningham, Miller and Weaver voted for the bill, Representative Harrison against it. All are Republicans.

SOME FOLKS JUST DON'T ENJOY BUGS

Beverly Ann Moyer, 21, of 5023 Meredith probably wishes she had let the bug bite her, and so do the passengers in the car she was driving Wednesday afternoon.

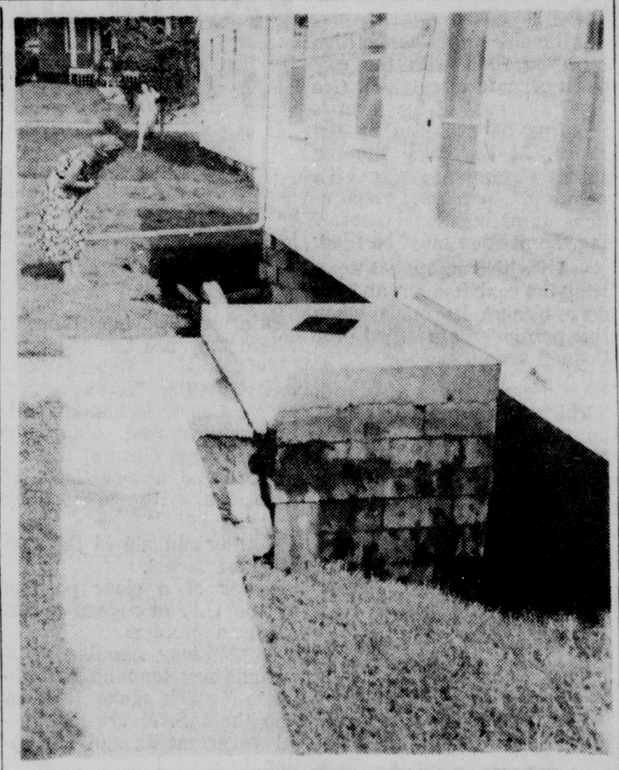

Mrs. Moyer told police she averted her attention to brush off a bug a passenger saw on her arm. The car she was driving swerved into a power pole on 48th between Cotner and Sumner, police said.

Mrs. Moyer was treated for a cut nose, arm and ankle pains. Her daughter, Theresa, 2½, suffered a cut forehead.

Two other passengers were admitted to Bryan Memorial Hospital with injuries suffered in the crash. Myla Jeanne Moyer, 13, of 4022 So. 40th suffered a cut face, scalp and wrist. Roberta Runyan, 15, of 4819 So. 48th was under observation for pain in her chest and head, police said.

Hartley Residents Blame City As Water Fills Basements

The basements of several homes on Hartley between 9th and 10th were flooded and the basement wall of another collapsed by Tuesday night's heavy rain.

Residents blamed shallow ditches and half-clogged culverts along Hartley for the misfortune.

"We have begged the city to get the ditches cleaned out," one resident said, "but absolutely nothing has been done."

She claimed a city crew scooped a couple of shovelfuls once, but didn't even turn off the motor of the truck before they left.

"Maybe the street needs a storm sewer," said another resident, "but the neglected condition of the culverts and ditches certainly aggravated the situation."

Residents said three basements were pumped out by the fire department Wednesday and two more were private pumped.

Hardest Hit

Hardest hit was the Andy J. Phillips' home at 935 Hartley, where the north wall of the basement totally collapsed and another was damaged.

The 900 block on Hartley has higher ground on three sides. The 16-inch culverts and shallow ditches, partially silt-filled, apparently failed to carry the heavy-run off.

A city official has told residents that the situation would be checked. City Hall was closed Wednesday afternoon for the city employes picnic.

Rep. Roosevelt Backs Labor Dept. In State Controversy

By Robert Hunt

Washington (AP) — Department of Labor actions in the controversial Nebraska wage rate case have been upheld by Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif).

Roosevelt, a member of the House Labor Committee, also was critical of James Critchfield, manager of the Nebraska chapter of the Associated General Contractors.

The Californian spoke out on the question in reply to a Critchfield letter. He inserted the correspondence in the congressional record.

Omaha Interchange

The controversy involved the Interstate Highway interchange near Omaha.

Critchfield and others contended wage rates set by the department of Labor were too high. Department findings since have been accepted and a contract let for the project.

Critchfield, in his letter to Roosevelt, enclosed articles from the Omaha World-Herald and The Lincoln Star on project delays reportedly caused by these determinations.

"You may recall," Critchfield said, "that proponents of the Davis-Bacon provisions in the 1956 federal aid highway act assured Congress that these requirements would neither hamstring nor delay the interstate program."

Act 'Important'

But Roosevelt, in remarks preceding the correspondence termed the act an important fact of government labor policy. Constructive criticism is always valuable, he said, adding:

"But critical contentions which are not founded in fact could, in this instance, serve to undermine the public confidence in a policy that is vital to the continued strength and vigor of the labor force."

Roosevelt told Critchfield data he (Critchfield) submitted indicates the department didn't consult with state highway officials, that 60 classifications were requested and only 20 set up and a delay in bid lettings was due to delay in the issuance of wage determinations by the department.

"Information furnished me from other sources," Roosevelt said, "seems to indicate that an entirely different set of circumstances actually exists with regard to this matter."

Cites Conference

He called attention to a Washington conference between Nebraskans and the department, including Secretary James Mitchell.

Roosevelt also noted the first determination came on February 4 and the second, which contained 40 classifications, followed on March 22.

". . . The delay in letting of the contracts in June was due," he said, "not to the failure of the United States Labor Department to issue a wage determination, but rather due to the dissatisfaction expressed by you and others with the wage rates predetermined by the solicitor of labor."

Roosevelt said he felt the department couldn't have done much more than it did in the Omaha case. He added:

"It is my opinion that we would have to go far to find a case which has had more impartial, exhaustive and far reaching consideration than the one you have referred to me here."

Today's Chuckle

Charm: what some people have until they start relying on it.

—Charter Amendment Planned—

Petition Change To Council Soon

Signature Requirements, Procedures Reviewed By Committee

By Virgil Falloon

A charter amendment proposing some basic changes in signature requirements and procedures for referendum and initiative petitions is expected to be submitted to the City Council in a week or so.

The City Charter Revision Committee recommended this and another amendment permitting the creation of a Water and Electric Board during its recently - concluded sessions.

The proposed initiative-referendum amendment is being examined for possible technicalities before the committee's report to the Council is made by Chairman Frank Williams.

This proposed amendment would make these changes:

— A referendum petition would require valid signatures equal to 6% of the voter registration total at the last city election instead of 15% of the highest vote cast for councilman (usually mayor).

— An initiative petition would need 5% of the total registration as compared with 15% of the total vote cast at the last city election. Additionally, the requirement for a special election would be changed to 15% of the registration total as compared with 25% of the total vote cast.

—Require that signature withdrawals on referendum petitions not be permitted after the final day for filing the petition. The deadline is 15 days after passage of the ordinance involved.

More Stable Base

The charter committee said the percentage based on voter registration would give a more representative and stable base than election counts, which widely vary from year to year.

Total registration at the last city election (May 7, 1957) was 57,585 as compared with the total election vote of 17,194 and high vote for councilman of 9,139.

Thus, a referendum petition would require 3,455 valid signatures compared with 1,371 under present provisions. Similarly, the initiative would need 2,879 as compared with 2,580.

The committee said the referendum's signature total was boosted because of the "extraordinary" powers involved in this procedure, which suspends an ordinance until a popular vote may be obtained.

No Time Limit

Under present charter provisions, the initiative requires more signatures but has no limitations as to time.

Other changes in the city's referendum and initiative procedures were patterned after the state's requirements:

—Date of signing is required in addition to the name and address of the signer.

—The affidavit form would require the circulator to certify all signatures were made in his presence.

—Require that the petition form be filed with the city clerk prior to circulation. (No legal approval of the form is required as provided by the state). At the same time, a sworn statement giving the names of persons, corporations or associations sponsoring the petition must be filed.

—A verified statement itemizing the contributions and the donors must be made when the petitions are filed for Council action.

32 Others

Thirty-two proposed charter amendments have already been approved by the City Council for submission to a vote of the people.

No Council action calling for an election has been taken, but a Dec. 9 special election has been unofficially indicated in preference to the general election on Nov. 4.

Favorable Council action on the latest two proposals would bring the number to 34 amendments.

High Standard For VA Site Is Promised

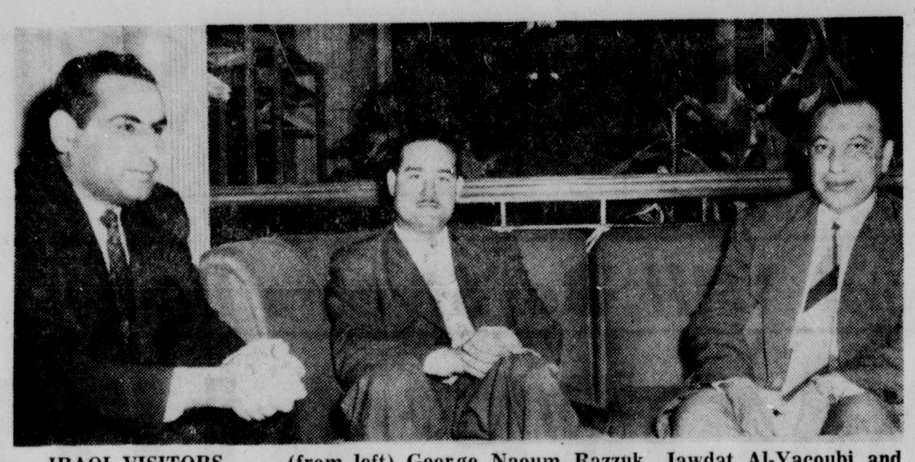

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce committee which led a drive to keep the Veterans Administration regional office in Lincoln will now devote itself to "making sure that whatever permanent location the VA chooses in Lincoln will measure up to the highest standards possible," Chairman Thomas R. Pansing announced Wednesday.

Earlier, he had met with directors of the Veterans Building Corp., which owns the building at 12th and O in which the VA has been housed since 1947.

The committee will ask for a list of facilities which VA Administrator Sumner Whittier would like to have "so that we can work with the owners or agents for any building which basically could be made suitable," Pansing said.

"Directors of the Veterans Building Corp., indicated again Wednesday that they are most willing to negotiate regarding improvements in the present quarters.

"Representatives of owners of the former State Farm Mutual Building at 10th and O also want to offer a proposal, but must know just what work would be required. We also hope to have at least one or 2 more locations to suggest after this information is secured."

Visiting Iraqis Point To 4 'Mistakes' Of U.S.

By Don Walton

American policy — if there is one—in the turbulent Mideast has made 4 major errors, 3 Iraqi attorneys who are here studying the U.S. judicial system said Wednesday night.

Interviewed in Lincoln, where they are the guests of Chief Justice Robert Simmons of the Nebraska Supreme Court, Mohammed Al-Basheer, Jawdat Al-Jacoubi and George Naoum Razzuk made these observations of American foreign policy "mistakes:"

—American aid in the creation of Israel.

—lack of a clear position by the U.S. in regard to the Algerian problem.

Military Landing

—military landings in Lebanon, "which make it seem that the U.S. favors dictatorial governments and corruption."

—absence of a desire to understand aspirations, hopes and aims of the Arab peoples by the U.S. government which has confined its interests to Mideast governments, not Mideast peoples.

The latter 3 American "mistakes" would not seem to be too difficult to solve, but problem No. 1 presents the big thorn in the side of Arab public opinion, the visiting attorneys admit.

"Israel should be given other land and it should be outside of the Mideast," Al-Basheer, acting dean of the Iraq Law College, said. How this monumental and what would seem to be unrealistic move could be accomplished was not explained.

Just Want Them Out

The simple fact is the Arabs want Israel out of the Mideast.

The Iraqi trio, who will wind up their Nebraska visit Friday, left their country only 6 days before the sudden revolution changed their government and touched off a Mideast crisis which carried the world to war's doorstep.

"We are optimistic as to the attitude of the American people" toward settlement of Iraq-U.S. differences, Razzuk said. "After all, we need experts and skilled men in our country."

"We really want to work with any country which shows a real desire to help us reach our goals, our national ambitions and our desire to better our standard of living," Al-Basheer said.

American intervention in Lebanon "makes the Arab nations afraid that the troops' existence may not give Arab nations the chance or, at least hinder the speed of developing Arab unity," Al-Basheer pointed out.

PENSION PUBLICITY BILL OK'D

. . . In Lower House

Washington (AP) — The House Wednesday shouted passage of a bill requiring public reporting of labor pension and welfare plans.

Passage by voice vote came after the House had defeated by a 131-104 standing vote a proposal by Rep. Albert H. Bosch (R-NY) to exempt employer-run "level - of - benefit plans."

These are programs set up by an employer who guarantees a definite amount of benefits to an employe. Management, employes or both pay the cost of various such plans.

Latest Bids On Bethany Library High

The apparent combination of low bids for the new Bethany Branch Library received Wednesday were over the estimate of $37,500 for the second time.

Library Director Charles Dalrymple said the bids would be discussed by the library board before any action is taken.

The combined low bids exceed the estimate by only $836 and Dalrymple said it might be possible to revise only the electrical specifications and readvertise only that contract. He said the bids received were highly competitive.

Apparent low bidder on general construction was Carl J. Dietrich Construction Co., Lincoln, at $27,500. Other Lincoln bidders were Melvin H. Buis, $28,300, and Garrett Construction Co., $28,130.

Action Electric was low bidder on the electrical contract at $6,178 and Green Furnace and Heating submitted the $4,658 low bid on the mechanical contract.

Previous bidding on July 9 was also over the estimate, according to city officials.

N.Y. Paper Says Nikita Planning Flight To U.S.

New York (UPI)—The New York Daily News reported that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev plans a surprise flight to New York to lead the Russian delegation before the U.N. General Assembly.

In a copyrighted dispatch from Washington for its Thursday editions, the news said "official announcement of his (Khrushchev's) coming will be made at the very last moment, perhaps after his takeoff."

Murphy Is Snubbed

Nasser Lets Yank Envoy Wait All Day

Cairo (AP) — President Nasser kept President Eisenhower's special envoy Robert Murphy waiting around all day in Cairo and then received him at the Nasser home in mid-evening Wednesday night.

They had a 4-hour talk. No comment was immediately available from either as to the details.

Murphy was flanked by U.S. Ambassador Raymond Hare and Nasser by his chief political advisers.

At about the same time in the leap-frogging diplomatic game on the Mideast front, Egypt's Middle East news agency reported Nasser's Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer had talked in Saudi Arabia with King Saud.

The Amer-Saud meeting was as much of a surprise as Murphy's heels-cooling in Cairo was not a surprise.

Amer is Nasser's No. 1 young revolutionary sidekick who as commander - in - chief of the United Arab Republic is in charge of the Egyptian and Syrian armed forces.

Rather Sensational

His flying trip to King Saud's summer residence for talks with the monarch who sits on an ocean of American-developed oil represented a somewhat sensational development.

Special Envoy Murphy and Ambassador Hare had waited since Tuesday night for their summons to meet Nasser.

Nasser received the Americans smilingly in his study and let photographers take pictures.

Murphy arrived from Beirut Tuesday night after a swing around the Mideast's other capitals, but it was not until 9 o'clock Wednesday night that he got the call from Nasser.

Informed sources said two things especially had angered Nasser.

First was the landing of U. S. troop reinforcements in Lebanon after the election last Thursday of Gen. Faud Shehab as a compromise president, and Murphy's statement on arriving here that there are no present plans for withdrawing the forces.

Second was the Washington decision to accept Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal for a U. N. General Assembly session but to insist on priority for an American resolution. This resolution would open up for consideration the Lebanese government's charge of massive infiltration of Lebanon by the U. A. R.

Elks Award To Nancy Greenamyre

. . . National Runnerup

Nancy K. Greenamyre, a 1958 graduate of Lincoln Northeast High School, was presented a $600 award at the Lincoln Elks Lodge No. 80 meeting Wednesday.

Greenamyre

Miss Greenameyer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Greenamyre, received the award as a runner-up in the Elks national scholarship contest.

The award was presented by Bill Quinn, exalted ruler of the local lodge.

To become eligible for the national award, Miss Greenamyre had won local and state scholarship contests.

Debt Limit Hike Okd

Washington (UPI) — The House voted 286-108 Wednesday to grant President Eisenhower's request for authority to let the national debt rise to an all-time peak of 288 billion dollars to cover climbing federal costs.

The measure now goes to the Senate for final congressional action some time before the lawmakers wind up their legislative chores for the year, probably late next week. There seemed no question but what it would pass.

The bill would raise the permanent debt ceiling from 275 to 285 billion dollars and the temporary top from 280 to 288 billion. However, it stipulated that the Treasury must get back down to the permanent ceiling of 285 billion by June 30, 1960.

Ten Killed

Johannesburg, South Africa (AP) — Ten persons were killed and thousands of acres of farmland burned over by fires sweeping parts of South Africa.

High Court Asked To Order Trial In Damage Suit

Robert O'Neill has asked the State Supreme Court to send back to Dawson County District Court for trial his auto accident suit against Marion A. Henke.

O'Neill brought suit to collect damages for injuries allegedly suffered in a collision while he was riding in a car driven by the defendant Henke near Eddyville in October, 1956. O'Neill contended Henke was guilty of gross negligence.

The district court dismissed the suit and O'Neill appealed to the Supreme Court.

In another auto accident case, Helen Pankonin filed a brief in support of an appeal from the Perkins County District Court.

Plaintiff Pankonin lost in the lower court her suit against Leonard Borowski and Borowski Bros., growing out of a 1955 accident in Grant, when a car in which the plaintiff was riding was in collision with a Borowski vehicle.

EVIDENCE OF CONSPIRACY INSUFFICIENT

Washington (AP) — The chairman of the Federal Trade Commission said recent steel price increases do not necessarily show there is a conspiracy by the industry.

"This has been a time of steady increases in prices," FTC Chairman John W. Gwynne told the Senate antimonopoly subcommittee.

Gwynne said the FTC can't investigate all price increases, and that it knows of no price-fixing conspiracy by the steel companies. Steel prices have gone up about $4.50 a ton, or 3%, in the last two weeks.

Wondra Plea 'Not Guilty'

Norman Wondra of Ceresco pleaded innocent in Lancaster County Court Wednesday to an escape charge in connection with his escape from the County Jail early Wednesday morning.

Sheriff Merle Karnopp said Wondra, 29, sawed his way through a ceiling ventilator grating, crawled up the air shaft to the jail roof, jumped to the ground and fled about 3:30 a.m. He was captured about 5 a.m. at 27th and Capitol Parkway by Police Det. Lowell Sellmeyer and Cruiser Officer Rolland Weisser.

Karnopp said two other jail inmates made their way to the roof through the air shaft but when Courthouse night watchman Adolph Sell spotted them and yelled they crawled back into their cell, which contained 12 other prisoners.

Wondra was being held for trial this fall on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. He was lodged in the County Jail May 16.

Karnopp said Wondra apparently had hidden a hacksaw blade in his shoes prior to his arrest on the concealed weapon charge. He was searched when put into jail, but the hacksaw blade was not spotted.

Wondra waived a County Court preliminary hearing on the escape charge and was bound over to District Court for trial this fall. His bond was set at $5,000.

Karnopp said he holds 2 armed robbery warrants for Wondra from Indiana authorities, who wish to question him in connection with several robberies there.

ISRAEL YIELDS

. . . On Jordan Airlift

London (AP) —Israel yielded on the Jordan airlift issue, but called Wednesday night for an explanation of Britain's political intentions in the harassed Arab kingdom.

Two U.S. Globemasters landed at Amman with supplies from Cyprus in a resumption of the airlift cut off Sunday when Israel cancelled permission for further operations across its territory.

Diplomats in Washington said Israel had agreed the resumption of overflights temporarily, pending development of an adequate Red Sea supply route to Jordan through the gulf of Aqaba.

Endless War Of Words

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The attempt between Russia and the United States to smooth out the troubles between them as a result of the Middle East situation seems to have degenerated completely into another useless battle of words. Both sides are eager to build a church but can never agree on the location.

Who is to blame in the failure to reach an agreement depends upon from which side you view conditions.

Irresistible Force, Immovable Object

But the fixing of any blame is no longer of much importance. Both sides are dedicated to winning as much influence in the world from current developments as is possible. There seems to be little real effort to find a solution but, rather, a calculated drive to carry on the state of crisis until one or the other force involved gives in or crumbles away. A summit meeting of the U.N. Security Council has now been killed.

In its wake has been substituted discussion of a meeting of the U.N. General Assembly. But the same stumbling block that ruined the Council meeting has now been thrown in the path of the Assembly proposal. Both parties involved want to stipulate the meeting place and the agenda and are miles apart or both.

Russia's Nikita Khrushchev, of course, wants to start the Assembly session with consideration of a resolution condemning the U.S. for what the Reds say is unwarranted intervention in the Middle East. The U.S. wants an agenda which calls for consideration of a resolution upholding the U.S. position and dealing with what this nation feels is Soviet subversion.

Obviously, neither side is going to agree to the terms proposed by the other. It is impossible to say what will happen next but there is one thing — a summit meeting — which probably won't come about. The interesting thing would be if one side or the other suddenly began to agree to whatever terms were laid down by the other.

If one side adopted an attitude of a summit meeting on any terms, it would put the other team to a real diplomatic test. What has transpired in the past and is now going on in discussion of the summit meeting is evidence of the fact that the struggle between East and West has no end in sight.

In many respects, the East and West both seem to be playing the same game—always challenging, always checkmating and always hoping that the strain will eventually prove to be too much to handle for the other. As the game progresses, points are won or lost according to old and new alliances

The situation, of course, is still better than a shooting war but it is a deplorable one for today's civilization. It is deplorable because of the vast sums of money it costs and the funds that must be wasted on projects which contribute nothing to the betterment of living conditions.

The vast armies and supplies of weapons that must be maintained keep nations in the game in continual debt. Our own economy is highly complicated by international conditions. The huge spending for defense purposes is inflationary at a time when such a trend is a distinct disadvantage. But these things, of course, have all been calculated as a part of the risk that comes with maintenance of at least a semblance of peace and self-preservation. They are a part of what each side hopes may eventually crush the other.

Huge Sums For Armament

The present stalemate on the summit conference proposal, more than anything else, is another sign that we have a long way to go before the world will be able to avoid frequent crises such as the Middle East now offers. It is a condition which calls for extreme patience and, unfortunately, the sacrifice of effort and resources to other than immediate goals of social welfare.

"Now, Would You Mind Raising Your Little Finger?"

Benson Prosperity

According to Ovid Martin, Associated Press commentator, Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson is planning a visit late this month into the farming regions. His purpose is two-fold. He believes he can help re-elect Republican congressman. He also wants to bring the glad tidings of his further successes in liberating the farmer from government controls.

There is a feeling of prosperity in the farm belt and Mr. Benson intends to stamp his label on it. What is more, he may get away with it for the agriculturist is a fellow who interprets the economics of farming by the way this corn is standing. There is no doubt at this stage that it never stood better. On top of that Mr. Benson is not bashful about snatching the credit from nature and adorning himself with it.

What Mr. Benson will not say on his trip is that his surplus reduction program now has the biggest surplus in years, that the forthcoming agricultural budget is the biggest on record, that whatever liberation he thinks he has effected is the costliest sort the country has known.

Currently the livestock prices are better than a year ago, but that is less a validation of his theories than it is the consequence of a tragic self-off at sad prices two years ago.

In grain farming it is a different story. Such well being as there is can be traced not to Mr. Benson but an abundant nature and how truly prosperous this year will be depends upon upcoming market prices. But at this stage Mr. Benson is all wet with his prosperity pitch. His Department of Agriculture has just given out the comparative prices for grain, matching mid July this year with a year ago. Here is the score:

Wheat $1.52 bu., down 36 cents.
Corn $1.09, down 18 cents.
Oats 53 cents, down 9 cents.
Barley 66 cents, down 17 cents.
Rye 82 cents, down 11 cents.
Grain sorghum $1.63 cwt., down 22 cents.
Potatoes $2.50 cwt., up 65 cents.
All baled hay $9.10 ton, down $4.60.
Baley alfalfa hay $9.30 ton, down $4.20.
Baled wild hay $8.80, down $5.70.
Dry edible beans $9.40 cwt., up $3.
Soybeans $2.02 bu., down 10 cents.

Together Again

Cissy, the little golden cocker of whom the late Jimmy Lawrence wrote so often and so lovingly, died this week after nearly 14 full and happy years. She had occupied an honored place as member of the family in the Lawrence household from the time she was a chubby puppy, making her way slowly one step at a time down the long carpeted stairs, until lately, when gray had crowded away most of the golden hairs around the soft muzzle and brown eyes.

Her favorite spot was always wherever her beloved master happened to be, whether it was the big chair in the quiet library where he relaxed after a hard day of newspapering, or at the breakfast table, just outside of stern maternal gaze, nibbling at the coveted and forbidden bites of toast.

She had waited patiently for him this past year. Each evening about nine o'clock, his usual time to call it a work day, she would trot down to the landing halfway between library and front door, and wait there for him . . .

Cissy was tired of waiting . . .

The joy of reunion between the old friends must have duplicated countless such happy meetings back through her lifetime . . .

Typically Dulles

This nation will endorse the general subject of a 21-nation Pan American summit conference as an afterpiece to the current visit of Secretary of State Dulles with President Kubitschek of Brazil.

Certainly there are enough misunderstandings and centers of ill-will between the United States and her Latin and South American neighbors to warrant a high level get-together. Moreover, the speed at which Dulles is losing potential friends and allies elsewhere in the world is a reminder there are not very more consequential nations to lose.

But it was with typical Dullesian blindness that the American secretary immediately began issuing directives to our South American neighbors. He made it clear that any ensuing economic development in South America would have to look to U.S. private capital.

That condition instantly vitiates the summit conference as a government-to-government undertaking and suggests that the South Americans proceed directly to the only place where substantial bargaining is possible, which is just where it has always been — with private enterprise. That is a poor inducement to a group of countries which, it seems, are to come to a meeting only to pay liege and take home nothing in return, but the joy of knowing that they have been forgiven.

That kind of a conference is not going to get very far. But it illustrates a master-servant relationship which is as unrealistic as it has been unsuccessful. Diplomacy can toy with dictatorial practices so long as the other nation has no recourse, but current statecraft must face the fact that recourse is present in the form of Russia which is finding its business greatly improved by catching our prospects on the rebound. We just must make up our mind that the world has turned competitive.

Ending The Pause

Every now and then there is that awkward pause in the conversation at a gathering, a time when no one can think of anything to say. But the well prepared fellow, the lion of the drawing room, goes armed for such contingencies and he is the fellow that clears his voice, assumes an authoritative look and rolls out some unusual predigested facts like these: "The United States government has more than $7 billion tied up in surplus food, but did you ever stop to think that the nation spends $15 billion a year just for the packaging of food it buys at the store? The Corn Industries Research Foundation says that the automobile business only totals $10 billion a year or $235 for a family of 4, whereas the same family puts out $352 a year for food packaging."

That ought to get a rise out of the most lethargic mind.

General Defends His Fishing Trip

WASHINGTON —The fishing trips of the Air Force top brass are causing resentment among enlisted men, to say nothing of dipping into the taxpayers' money. Last week a fishing trip by the top general of the Air Force, Chief of Staff Tom White, came a cropper when his helicopter cracked up about 100 miles from Goose Bay, Labrador.

Cost to the taxpayers for the H-21 Helicopter No. 534401 was close to $200,000.

It was left to lie in the wilds of Labrador, near the Sandhill river, and when safety officers convened an investigation board and asked for the records, the board was called off. General White's name was then removed from the records. Furthermore, the No. 534401 is now listed as "cross country." This means that it is still officially flying somewhere across country, despite the fact that it's wrecked.

Goose Bay has established various fishing camps within one to two hundred miles as a recreation area.

They are serviced by H-21 helicopters and SA-16 amphibious planes, which normally are supposed to service the men camped in lonely radar stations in the arctic wilderness watching for surprise attack.

However, those planes are now busy flying fishing parties. An average of ten planes and helicopters are assigned to the fishing service, operating about twenty hours daily at a minimum cost of $15 an hour. It should be noted, however, that the enlisted men and officers who have to spend their bleak arctic winters in this area deserve all the fishing recreation they can get. Arctic nights are long and monotonous.

President Eisenhower, who has spiked Hells Canyon and boosted the Dixon-Yates power project to undercut the Tennessee Valley Authority, has another nice package on the White House shelves for the public utilities.

He is elevating two of their good friends to potent positions inside the Rural Electrification, an organization established to compete with the private utilities and thereby help to keep electric power rates down.

The two utility friends being elevated to key positions inside the REA are:

Ralph Foreman, who will be deputy REA administrator, who once tried to throw two REA co-ops into the hands of the utilities.

Norman McFarlin, who will be in charge of rural telephones, and who with his father operates the Montezuma Telephone Company at Montezuma, Iowa.

His father once told Congress that he considered the REA rural telephone program something closely akin to "socialism." Now his son will operate a project charged by law with financing the co-operative phone lines which his father regards as socialism.

Is It Ike Or Is It Adams Who Is Nippy

WASHINGTON — The adjournment of Congress which once seemed near is presently in doubt for reasons of party politics.

It is the conviction of Democratic leaders that President Eisenhower has begun a considered program of embarrassing them on every bill that Congress sends to him for signature.

They believe it is being done strictly for campaign purposes, since they have widely supported him on major issues of policy, foreign policy in particular. They point out that his vetoes and bitter comments began only after the press began to praise Congress for its contribution to orderly government in the past few troubled months.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex), gave audience to Jack Z. Anderson, one of the President's four administrative assistants, and bluntly told him: "Our backs are getting sore." The speaker also indicated strongly that in the game of partisan politics the Democrats felt they were well equipped to take on all comers.

☆ ☆ ☆

The implicit warnings were capably handled by Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) who is, all of a sudden, pleasantly vague about any plans to close the session. He now doesn't know just what Congress will do or how it will do it.

Nobody would dream of mentioning Sherman Adams at this point. But it is clear to Democrats that what seems to them petty harassment on money bills and the detail of government at this late date suggests Adams more than Eisenhower. They blame the President for doing it, just the same.

It is an open question whether the President has deliberately decided to risk a lengthening session of Congress in preference to getting 531 potential critics safely out of town in the difficult months ahead. Most observers believe he has little gift for such political strategy, and less inclination. That is why Adams wields such power in the White House and is generally credited with absolute control of its daily operations.

☆ ☆ ☆

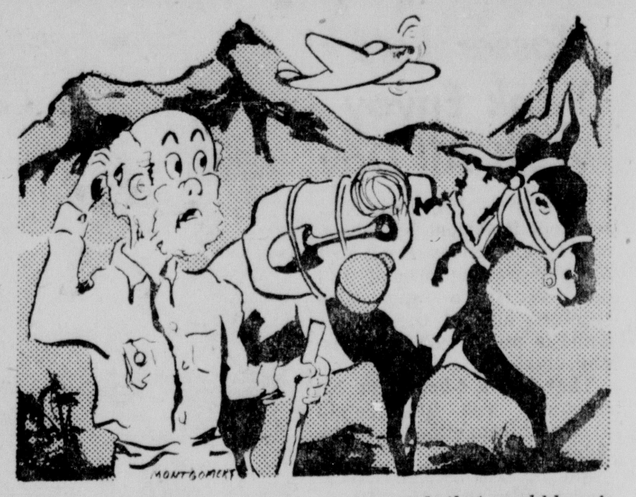

One Republican is exculpated on all sides for the situation. Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland is eager to return to California and get his lagging campaign for governor off the ground. He sees no reason why Congress can't adjourn promptly. Legislatively speaking, he is correct. There are major bills it might be well for Congress to pass that it may not, but all experience shows that in its closing days Congress revives few great policy issues, only special interest measures.

With his control of the calendar, a proficient technician like Senator Johnson can do a great deal in the way of such fun and games with the White House. He may or may not do it now, but the mood on Capitol Hill early this week is fractious in the extreme.

BOB CONSIDINE

An Oldtimer Wouldn't Believe It

En Route to Fairbanks, Alaska — The sourdoughs would have strung up anybody who described for them, back in the days when they were making it on foot, the inaugural flight of Alaska Airlines Golden Nugget Service from Seattle to Fairbanks. The dreamer would have been considered too dangerous to have on the trip.

"Let's say it's a little different from 1929 when I ran my dogs from Manitoba to Fairbanks," a guy across the aisle just commented.

A pretty stewardess served him a martini before stoking him with a light luncheon of shrimp cocktail, filet mignon, potato - baked- in - foil, fresh peas, a green salad featuring cocktail-sized tomatoes, fragrant coffee, a chocolate-and-whipped cream dessert, brandy, etc.

We fly in a unique airliner which cost the enterprising airline exactly one fourth the sum for which the United States bought all 86,400 square miles of Alaska. The $1,800,000 DC-6C has the rugged frame of the DC-6A Douglas cargo plane plus the plush soon-to-come 707 jet interiors.

Alaska Airlines could in time become the air age's counterpart of the Orient Express from Paris to Ankara, the one Marlene Dietrich was always on. This Golden Nugget flight will be extended to Nome when the weather is right and thus a portion of its pasengers may well be Eskimo women with papoose snugly in place. Then too if all goes well at the summit and elsewhere, the route will be expanded to Irkutsk, the Siberian resort city on Lake Baikal (the world's deepest and seventh largest lake) — a mere 2,950 miles west of Nome.

As it stands or flies, Alaska Airlines now has enough glamor to spread around to a lot of other airlines. It has been built up through the years from the corporate remains of five or six intrepid Alaska lines that helped link a frontier which is superimposed on the map of the U.S. would reach from Jacksonville, Fla., to Los Angeles. It continues a bush service in addition to the splendor of the Golden Nugget, a bush service in the great tradition.

Among the stop-offs of that service is the settlement of Ungalik populated by two aged men, a gold prospector, named Shaw and his cook who has the unnerving name of "Cook." The single-engined bush planes keep the likes of Ungalik alive, landing sometimes on floats, sometimes on wheels, sometimes on skis.

Alaska Airlines is headed up by Charles F. Willis Jr., a former White House aviation adviser with one of those war records that would knock the wind out of you — strafed at Pearl Harbor . . . four days on a raft in the Pacific later in the war after being shot down . . . rescue of important POW's 800 miles behind the Japanese lines . . . air-torpedo strikes on an enemy cruiser . . .

His line flies Eskimo teenagers 900 miles to school, transports reindeer stateside for Christmas displays, inaugurated fresh meat flights to Alaska, transported the entire Jesuit Missionary schools and hospital and orphanage to a new location halfway across Alaska, made the first commercial flight over the North Pole, went on an unscheduled basis to assist in the Berlin air lift, the lift of Jewish refugees to Israel and support of U.N. forces in Korea.

A whole new world is opening up for the countless millions of stateside travelers. I would say the Golden Nugget is surely the most comfortable way to get your foot in the door.

Sad Refrain

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Banker Milton Eisenhower reports that he found friends on his Central American tour. He stayed among the right people, not as Nixon did when he tried to identify himself with the grass roots. That turned out disastrously.

If the present U.S. diplomatic blunders keep on with their abstract unrealistic policies catering to kings and rulers, they will be singing a sad refrain (as the old song goes) — "My sweetheart went down with the ship"— as did already their darling Chiang Kai-shek.

Wishful Thinking?

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Bankruptcy of our policy of defense, not financial bankruptcy, is what I would like to comment on.

The military establishment has unmanned planes, "drones." One of the airfields from which they are launched to be tried out is in California not too far from Los Angeles. On such a test flight, one evidently knows where the drone is supposed to fly and its path is followed to see whether it performs properly. Anti-aircraft guns are ready to shoot it down in case the drone gets out of control, to prevent it from falling into Los Angeles or some other inhabited area.

When I was in Los Angeles, newspapers reported a drone having gone loose. Eighty shots had to be fired at it. All of them missed and several forest fires were started by these anti-aircraft missiles. The drone went by itself into the Pacific Ocean.

The boys tell us that anti-aircraft missiles are going to protect Lincoln. But I think we are in the nuclear age and that means that a single one of the nuclear bombs attacking the Lincoln AFB is enough to finish off everyone in Lincoln. And there is no means to prevent one bomb out of 10 from coming through—the enemy bombers are not announced as our own drones are (which we are not even sure to be able to shoot down). The larger range of the nuclear warhead of the anti-aircraft rocket won't help much. And if the attack were to come by enemy ballistic missiles in a few years hence, this proposed mode of defense is simply outdated. I have yet failed to find a sensible scientist who takes anti-missile plans seriously.

What does that all amount to? Our defense policy is an unrealistic myth, a lot of wishful thinking. Because it gives us a feeling of imagined strength, it might well cause us to be launched into the holocaust of a nuclear war.

His Gifts

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star:

At the end of the day when your labors are through
Have you ever looked up in God's heaven of blue,
Behold, the great mysteries of His domain
The Ascension of Christ, 'tis the very same
Heavens as in days of yore
And the very same wonders you've seen before;
Yet no artist, sculptor nor science designed
Has ever captured God's gifts to mankind—
The fleecy white clouds in a picture sky,
The golden sun and the moon on high.
He gives us the rain and the stubborn wind,
And the fall of the sparrows are known to Him.
His precious handiwork here below
Has given us warmth and the cold of the snow.
The golden harvest His greatest surprise,
The abundance of food that He provides.
And the sheer delight at the day,
With the joy of a sunset gone to rest.
High in the mountain is the eagle's nest
Keeping watch o'er the world of trouble and strife,
That we, God's children, may enjoy this life;
His gifts to mankind are abundantly given,
With sincere love of our Father in Heaven.

Good Care

Fairmont, Neb.

The the Editor of The Lincoln Star: I read an article in the paper about the forgotten old folks, and am happy to state these conditions do not exist where I live. Every old person is given every consideration and treated very kindly.

In the morning on arising everyone is washed and combed for breakfast, which is served at seven o'clock. After a good breakfast, they can go into the lobby, which is air-conditioned in summer and comfortably warm in the winter. They read, talk, look at TV or play the piano. Some go to their rooms to rest or just to be alone.

Dinner is the heaviest meal, plain and appetizing. Supper is light, but always different. There's a nice big yard where they love to sit in the summer and a big porch where they take the bed patients. There are no restrictions on going to bed. Some go early; some watch TV. There is church every Sunday afternoon.

There is no reason why all nursing homes can't be this way.

Late Paycheck

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Hurrah for the ladies who castigated the professor who complained about his paycheck being late! The professor deserved to have his hands slapped because his thinking is most naive and childlike. He must think he's working for a business. Stockholders in a business would be shocked if the widow of the treasurer of the company were hired to take his place, with no more qualifications for the job than club work, and if the payroll and payments to suppliers were then delayed. But after all, this is the state of Nebraska, not a business.

Probably the professor is just childishly jealous because he knows that if he died, the University wouldn't hire his wife to take over his classes, no matter how active in club work she had been. If he were mature, he'd console himself with the thought that this proves it's harder to replace a professor than a politician — even a Republican politician.

Conferees OK 39.5 Billion Fund To Run Military

Washington (AP)—A compromise money bill providing more than 39½ billion dollars to run the military establishment this year was agreed upon by a Senate-House conference committee.

It still is subject to final approval by both branches of Congress.

The biggest peacetime appropriation measure, it carries about 800 million dollars more than the amount asked by President Eisenhower for the fiscal year which began July 1.

Stricken from the bill was some 440 million dollars previously voted by the Senate, primarily for the Air Force.

New Funds

The compromise would supply these new funds:

Air Force $17,877,624,000; Army $8,992,859,000; Navy and Marines $11,359,427,000; interservice activities $836,900,000; and Office of the Secretary of Defense, $36,017,000.

The compromise retains money previously voted by both the Senate and House in a move to prevent cutbacks planned by the administration in manpower for the Army, Marine Corps, National Guard and Army reserves.

Also retained was more than 600 million dollars above budget requests to build 4 Polaris ballistic missile submarines with atomic power plants in addition to two the administration had asked. Three are now being built. The compromise would provide a total force of 9.

Jet Bombers

Eliminated was a Senate fund of $108,700,000 to build 13 extra B52G long range jet bombers and $18,300,000 for 30 F27 jet transports.

Retained was $51,675,000 to build 30 additional K135 jet tankers to refuel jet bombers. The Senate had voted to provide double this number.

Also approved was 140 million dollars to build troop carrier airlift planes and equipment as well as $21,800,000 to build 10 jet transport training aircraft.

CAR GAS LINE EXPLODES; MAN HURT SLIGHTLY

C. L. McGowen of 2301 No. 33rd suffered minor cuts and bruises Wednesday morning when the gas line of a car he was working on exploded at the Northwestern Iron and Metal scrap yard at 11th and Avery.

Fellow workmen said they believed the fumes in the empty tank were ignited by McGowen's acetylene torch. McGowen, 43, was blown about 20 feet by the blast. He was examined at a local clinic and released.

Both Lose

Lake City, Mich. (AP) —Neither Democratic Mrs. Grace Neilan nor her Republican husband, Charles, will appear on the Missaukee County ballot for sheriff in November.

Mrs. Neilan lost 251-51 to her Democratic foe, John Dorland in a primary. Republican Sheriff John Beagle beat her husband, 845-99.

Tennessee Votes Today; Sen. Gore In A Battle For His Political Life

By The Associated Press

Tennessee Democrats hold a primary Thursday featuring hotly contested races that may indicate how the border state feels about the segregation question.

Meanwhile, returns from primaries Tuesday in Michigan, Missouri, Kansas and West Virginia revealed no big surprises. Principal races came out as expected. A few House contests were close and official canvasses may be required to decide a couple.

In Tennessee, the 29th state to hold a primary this year, Democratic Sen. Albert Gore is in the fight of his life seeking a second term nomination.

His opponent, former Gov. Prentice Cooper, has accused Gore of favoring "creeping integration." He also says Gore deserted the South by voting for the compromise civil rights bill and by refusing to sign the Southern manifesto denouncing the Supreme Court's school desegregation rulings.

Gore has replied he favors segregation and helped senators from the Deep South states remove the most objectionable features of the 1957 civil rights bill.

Two of the 4 candidates for governor, State Agriculture Commissioner Buford Ellington and Circuit Judge Andrew T. Taylor, are avowed segregationists. They promise to close public schools, if necessary, to prevent integration.

Here in brief are the results of the Tuesday primaries:

MICHIGAN — Gov. G. Mennen Williams easily won Democratic renomination to a 6th term. His Republican opponent in November will be Paul D. Bagwell, a Michigan State University professor on leave, who had no primary opponent.

Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart won the Democratic senatorial nomination and will try to unseat Republican Sen. Charles E. Potter, who was unopposed for renomination.

In closely watched U.S. House races, Democratic Reps. John Lesinski Jr., and Thaddeus M. Machrowicz won renominations.

MISSOURI—Sen. Stuart Symington easily won Democratic renomination to a second term. His November opponent will be Miss Hazel Palmer, a Sedalia attorney who is the retiring president of the National Assn. of Business and Professional Women.

All incumbent congressmen appeared to have won renomination, but Democratic Rep. George H. Christopher had such a slim margin that a count of absentee ballots could upset him.

WEST VIRGINIA—Former Rep. Jennings Randolph and Rep. Robert C. Byrd were nominated by the Democrats for two-and 6-year senatorial terms, respectively. Incumbent Sens. John D. Hoblitzell Jr., and Chapman Revercomb had no opposition in the Republican primary.

KANSAS—Clyde Reed Jr., newspaper publisher, won Republican nomination for governor over former Gov. Fred Hall. Reed will run against Democratic Gov. George Docking, unopposed for renomination, in November.

Republican Rep. Wint Smith won a close race, on the basis of unofficial returns, with Keith Sebelius, Norton attorney, for renomination to a 7th term.

Slavs Satisfied

Belgrade (AP) — Yugoslav government circles voiced satisfaction at Soviet Premier Khrushchev's call for an extraordinary meeting of the U.N. General Assembly. It was originally an idea Yugoslavia proposed.

Yugoslavia Communists hold that a meeting of the General Assembly is the best and only way for discussing the Middle East crisis. The Yugoslavs feared that the presence of smaller nations without vote at a Security Council summit meeting could end in a sort of agreement such as Yalta, settling things for the smaller nations.

Congressmen Get Goldfine Letters Urging No Contempt Action

Ike Affirms Adams Faith

Washington (AP)—Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine sent a barrage of letters to House members to plead that he was not in contempt of Congress in refusing to answer 23 questions about his business operations.

While Goldfine was making this appeal, the House—without dissent — voted $60,000 more to its subcommittee that has investigated Goldfine's relations with presidential aide Sherman Adams.

And down the street, President Eisenhower once again affirmed his faith in Adams.

Adams has been under fire for accepting gifts from millionaire Goldfine, who was having troubles with government regulatory agencies. Both have denied that Goldfine got any special treatment as a result of his friendship with Adams.

Nothing More

Asked at a news conference whether he still intends to keep Adams on the job, Eisenhower said he had made his views plain before and had nothing more to say on the subject. Previously, the President had said Adams may have been imprudent in accepting Goldfine favors, but that he had full confidence in Adams' integrity. Eisenhower added he needed Adams at the White House.

The commerce subcommittee that exploded the affair asked the House to cite Goldfine for contempt of Congress for repeated refusal to answer questions.

With the contempt matter awaiting a House vote, perhaps Friday, Goldfine moved in with hundreds of letters, hand-delivered to Congressmen's offices with a note urging their administrative assistants to put the Goldfine plea "near the top of the pile on your boss' desk." The recipients said no gift was included.

With the letter was a resume of Goldfine's position, set forth by his two Boston lawyers—Samuel P. Sears and Lawrence R. Cohen.

Returns Filed

Boston (AP) — Bernard Goldfine filed his state income tax returns for the last 2 years, tax commissioner Joseph P. Healey announced.

Healey said Goldfine, principal in a Washington influence probe, paid the taxes indicated on the returns, plus interest up to date.

Healey said the returns were subject to penalties up to 15% because they were filed late, and that the penalties also were paid.

The returns were turned over to income tax auditors for checking.

Third Man On TV

London (AP) — Now The Third Man is coming to TV. Actor James Mason has signed up to play Harry Lime—the role that Orson Welles handled in the movie version—in 39 half-hour TV films for American and British markets. The British Broadcasting Corp. is a partner in the $1,400,000 enterprise.

City Park Attendance Near Mark

Park attendance over the last 2 months has been about the heaviest ever known, accordint to James Ager, park superintendent, but if the hot weather keeps up there will be a noticeable decline.

Ager said that when the weather is too hot, people stay home and enjoy their air conditioning. He also stated that when classes at the University of Nebraska resume, the number of people in the parks will decline.

However, the cool, wet summer has reduced the swimming pool attendance considerably. Muny has had 47,588 in attendance up through Aug. 3, as compared to 60,654 last year. University Place pool reports 37,756, as compared to 54,140 in 1957.

Swimmers at the Irvingdale pool decreased from 56,962 in 1957 to 45,844 this year.

Pigeonholed

Washington (UPI)—A food stamp plan for distributing two billion dollars worth of food to needy Americans was pigeonholed by the House Rules Committee.

Th legislation would have revived a plan used briefly during the Roosevelt New Deal era under which needy persons could receive government-subsidized food at their local grocery store.

Engineering Firm Incorporates Here

A new Lincoln firm, Kaighin-Hughes-Litwin, Inc., has filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state.

The corporation was formed to design, plan, do engineering work for, build and otherwise service refineries, chemical plants, power plants, manufacturing and other facilities.

Authorized capitalization is $50,000 and incorporators are Floyd I. Hughes and James A. Austin, both of Toledo, O.

Judge Munday Successor To Be Hastings Meet Topic

Consideration will be given to recommending a successor to 10th District Judge Frank J. Munday of Red Cloud when lawyers of that judicial district meet in Hastings Saturday night, Gov. Victor Anderson has reported.

The governor said he had been in contact with A. W. Storms of Holdrege, president of the Bar Association for that district, who said the matter can be taken up at the Saturday meeting.

Judge Munday announced this week he will retire effective Aug. 16.

Gov. Anderson said he normally solicits the bar organization in the district for recommendations on a successor when he is confronted with such an appointment.

Anderson said lawyers at the Hastings meeting probably will either appoint a committee to bring in recommendations, or poll members on the spot.

$433 A Month

Judge Munday will receive $433.16 a month under the Nebraska Judicial Retirement Act, according to Glenn I. Anderson, director of the State Retirement System.

The judge's application for retirement benefits will be considered Monday by the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds, the agency in charge.

The law authorizes Judge Munday to receive retirement pay totaling 65% of the pay being received at retirement. In Munday's case, this pay is $333.33 per month, and 65% of this gives him $541.66. Deducting the $108.50 which he will receive in old age and survivors insurance benefits leaves $433.16 to be met from the retirement fund.

Glenn Anderson said the fund currently carries $63,090.07.

He said the next Legislature probably will consider whether to make an appropriation of money to the fund to augment income under the Retirement Act.

Judge Munday is the 2nd district judge to take advantage of the act. The first was District Judge William F. Spikes of St. Paul, who retired in June.

BRIEF CITES ERROR IN ROAD DISPUTE DECISION

Ted and Eileen Bredehoft told the State Supreme Court that the Platte County District Court at Columbus erred in a decision relating to the disputed width of a road.

As set out in their brief, the Bredehofts contended that under laws of 1895, the county paid for a 33 foot road but later claimed to own a 66 foot wide strip. By so doing, said the Bredehofts, the county destroyed an irrigation well built on the disputed area and took land belonging to the plaintiffs.

The Bredehofts brought suit after the county refused to allow them damages.

The District Court allowed $250 damages for malconstruction of the road but refused the Bredehoft's principal claim.

Electronic Miracles Guard Our 49th State

This is the 4th of a series of on-the-spot articles on Alaska to appear in The Star.

By Burris Jenkins Jr.

Nome, Alaska — Now the tempo speeds up.

To pinpoint even a few high-spots of 586,400 square miles in a few days requires a lot of flying.

So you go to the Air Force. Any war correspondent knows that, to cut red tape and get things done, go to the front.

The closest front we've got in the cold war is here — under the Alaskan command. Close? It touches. For 7 months, the 50 miles between Siberia and what is now the United States freezes over. The continents join. To guard this dangerous contiguity, some 50,000 men of our 3 military services stand at the 24-hour ready.

At Elmendorf Air Base headquarters, Major Dawson asks "What do you want to see and when?" You tell him you want to see White Alice and the Dew Line—2 electronic miracles that permit you back home to sleep better at night. White Alice is the most advanced type of radio telephone system: Dew Line is our radar warning network.

Dawson takes you into another room to meet Lt. Col. Wachtel, who picks up a phone calls a number. "Here," he says, handing you the phone. "Speak to Major Dale in Kodiak — that's a White Alice connection . . ."

Dale's voice comes in crystal clear without static.

Other officers join you—finally the big C.O. himself, gruff Lt. Gen. Frank Armstrong (inspiration for the movie "Twelve O'Clock High"). You compliment him on his officers who have arranged one tour for you tomorrow, another the next day.

"What's the delay?" he growls.

The first trip is peaceful but informative. The nearest White Alice station is a couple of hours' drive out of Anchorage on the road to Fairbanks, 300 miles away. The day is sunny and mild.

Dust Bow' Refugees

Matanuska Valley unrolls around you. This is the planned colony where Roosevelt and Ickes sent refugees from the dust bowls. Fifty per cent stuck it out and still live here.

Your guide, Major Igli, points to an expensive ranch house with a sign reading "Belly Acres" on the gate.

You stop for lunch at a lodge on a lake. Mrs. Caroline Shields is on the end of her dock, fishing for trout, while you sip a cocktail in the bar and enjoy through a picture window scenery that is unsurpassed even in Switzerland.

Mrs. Shields owns 150 acres. Grows beets, peas, beans, cauliflower—almost anything but tomatoes, corn and wheat—in her 12 feet of soil. "You have to be on the right side of a mountain where the wind can blow the soil down," she explains. "Some farmers have only a few inches of soil—good only for grazing."

The bane of Alaskan farming is permafrost, which prevents the deeper soil from ever thawing. Makes cauliflower and lettuce grow fat and radishes round as apples, but sidways and half out of the earth.

Like Drive-In Movies

All White Alice stations look the same: Like 2 or 3 drive-in movie screens, slightly curved and pointing in different directions. What do they do? They pick up your voice along with a dozen others (at the same time yet!) and bounce them off these screens—or scatter them into microwaves, as the technicians say — onto an atmospheric layer called the troposphere. There what's left of your voice waves is picked up 170 miles away by an antenna and amplified back some 10 trillion times to your normal voice. Get it?

Anyway, going through the big plant and looking at all those wires and tubes and switches doesn't make it any clearer. You settle for the information that this system of communication — unbroken from the northwest shoulder of Alaska to Middleton Island, where telephone wires can't stand before winter storms—is a major contribution to our country's defense as well as a new and better way to talk over a telephone.

Insurance Machine

Now it is 5 a.m. next morning. You dress warmly, buttoning the lining in your trench coat. The breakfast room opens at 5:30. At 6 sharp, Captain Dan Hill comes to drive you to passenger terminal at Elmendorf Air Base. You wait while Captain Hill goes to get your orders.

There is an insurance policy machine. You start to put in quarters when a sergeant stops you. "That won't do you any good mister—that's for civilian-plane passengers."

Captain Hill returns with your orders. Romanzof on the Bering Sea. Maybe Gambel. Maybe Nome. Depends on the weather when you get there. It's 480 nautical miles each way. (The orders clear you up to, and including, top secret.)

You waddle out with Major Richard Harder. Though he is ranking officer, Harder is co-pilot to Captain Patrick Russo, because the major is not very familiar with this type of plane—a C123 Fairchild Provider with twin Pratt Whitney 2300-horsepower engines. (Both officers are from New York State.)

When you climb aboard, Sgt. Arnold Curtis of California, load master, is securing a 9,000-lb. steam shovel in the cavernous hold of this high-tailed aircraft. There is still plenty of room to move around as Major Harder gives you hurried instructions on how to don the new type Mae West. Then he straps over that and under your legs a ponderous parachute. By this time he is shouting — for one of the engines has started —"When you pull the ripcord there, pull all the way out to arm's length to be sure it opens . . ."

You can't hear the rest but it wouldn't make any difference anyhow . . .

Strapped Into Seat

Your are now further strapped into a seat belt sideways on a bench alongside the wall, and Major Harder has climbed to the cockpit 10 feet overhead and both motors are roaring, throwing you backwards as the C123 heads toward Siberia. Airman 1.C Hal Hossler, the other member of the crew, perches on a safety belt slung in the cockpit door between the pilots. After a while he climbs down and motions for you to take his place. You shed 4 layers of apparatus and climb up. Big soft earphones with intercom button are here and at last you can see, listen, and speak.

"Mount Spur, the volcano," Major Harder points. "Five years ago threw pumice all over Anchorage . . ." You stare down the black hole.

"And this is Merrill Pass. Named for the bush pilot. Hit that peak in a fog."

One cone-shaped mountain blocks the passage between larger peaks, 9 or 10 thousand feet high. There's a glacier on the left — one brilliant spot of cobalt blue in the middle.

Only Waste Tundra

Once over the range, there is nothing but waste Tundra below. Miles and miles of a nothing-land pitted with marshy lakes, and then the Kuskokwim River winding back on itself with a rare Eskimo village showing smoke.

Sparrevon Radar Site shows up soon, with the white domes and White Alice screens adjacent. Then waste land and tundra again. Good only for caribou and moose.

It is 15 degrees outside but warm in the cockpit. At 169 knots we are one minute ahead of schedule, a quarter mile off course.

"Can't navigate by these rivers and lakes," the major says. "They're too similar."

And there is the Yukon, big now, and writhing in circles. Siberia is less than 300 miles away. The captain gets permission to descend to 4,000 feet for the approach to Romanzof.

"I doubt if we'll land. The wind is wrong. We'll just make a pass." We circle over the Bering Sea. "Looks all right to mel," says the major, "The waves are right."

GIs Stare In

You go to your bucket seat and strap in for the landing. There is a great noise of reversing props. Then the rear doors open horizontally and a row of parka-rimmed GI faces stare in. You are outside in the bright sun and — holy smoke! Your plane is balanced on the narrow path of a mountain cliff, the runway just 2,800 feet long!

Lt. Wm. Currie is waiting with a jeep to drive you to the lonely quarters, plain neat frame buildings, of the 85 airmen and 7 officers who man this station, and then to the mountain top where clouds shroud the Dew Line radar dome. But really all the lieutenant wants to talk about is a girl named Jenine Louis, who was born on Father's Day in Denver and whose mother talked to him for half an hour that day on a White Alice telephone...

Then Nome . . . a barren cluster of houses and a harbor on a cold sea . . . empty Russian hangars across the airstrip we shared with them in World War II . . . temperature 41 . . . a fireplace in a recreation room at the weather building, built, they tell you, for a Stalin-Roosevelt Big Two meeting that never came off.

Oxygen Whiffs

A short stop at Granite Mountain to unload a truck . . . the long return journey . . . 10,100 feet to clear the peaks . . whiffs of oxygen shared with the pilots . . McKinley blooming like a burst of cumulus cloud.

Then fog and finally snow over the Chagach Range, and a low ceiling touchdown at Elmendorf Air Base 11 hours and 42 minutes after takeoff!

Baby, it's big up here—and lonesome.

(Tomorrow, Fairbanks in the interior, the heart of the gold mining country.)

Scotch Accent Now

Melbourne, Australia (AP) — Ellen Matthews, 42, got back her voice after 7 years of silence attributed to an electric shock while she was ironing. She's glad. But there's a new wrinkle in her words. She speaks now with a Scotch accent, though none of her acquaintances is a Scot and she never has been abroad.

750,000 Settlements

Bonn (AP) — The West German government reports it has so far settled 750,000 of 2¼ million individual claims filed for restitution for Nazi persecution. Estimates of the total cost of such settlements now range as high as 24 billion marks ($5,712,000,000).

Morrison Challenges Hruska To Series Of Public Debates

By Don Walton

Democratic senatorial candidate Frank Morrison of Lincoln, in a letter mailed Wednesday to Sen. Roman Hruska of Omaha, his opponent in the November elections, "suggested" that the 2 nominees make "a series of joint appearances" to discuss the major problems of the day.

Morrison asked for a reply "at your earliest convenience."

"If people are to form an opinion effectively and correctly it will be necessary for us to face the same audience at the same time," the 53-year-old Lincoln attorney wrote.

Favored Caravan

Sen. Hruska was quoted Sunday as saying he favors continuation of GOP campaign caravans and that he sees no reason to change Republican campaign tactics, apparently ruling out the proposition of appearing on the same platform with his Democratic opponent.

Excerpts from Morrison's letter:

"You were reported in the Sunday press as stating that you preferred the political caravan type of campaigning to an appearance on the same platform with your opponent on the theory that you did not want to draw a crowd for your opponent to talk to.

"First of all, I wish to make this statement. If the entire Republican caravan draws as large a crowd in any city in the state of Nebraska as we had in the little town of Abie, Nebraska, I will buy you the biggest steak dinner in the city of Omaha.

'Outmoded'

"A political caravan is as outmoded as torch-light parades, 4th of July oratory and high buttoned shoes.

"No one is interested in hearing a bunch of politicians peddle political tripe on street corners. On the average stop in Nebraska the Republican caravan will have fewer listeners than it has candidates and you know that is true!

"There is but one issue in Nebraska's senatorial election and that is: Who is better qualified to represent Nebraska in the United States Senate—Roman Hruska or Frank Morrison.

"All other issues divert the attention of the public from the real issue. If people are to form an opinion effectively and correctly it will be necessary for us to face the same audience at the same time.

'Must Face Each Other'

"As a lawyer you know that to aid the administration of justice it is necessary that lawyers trying a case appear before the same court and jury at the same time in the same courtroom and not appear at different times in different courtrooms. If people are to get the truth, it must come by contestants facing each other.

"To enable the people to become better informed, I suggest joint appearances before service clubs so that the audience cannot possibly be the result of partisan political activity.

"Furthermore, Senator since you seem to believe your opponent is weak and deficient, you should have no qualms about appearing on the same platform.

"In these times this nation must think in terms of political truth, not trickery. I invite your attention to this end."

Morrison said that in addition to his own offer to debate Hruska, suggestions for a debate have come from a group of Sidney businessmen, the Lincoln League of Women Voters and Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity.

New Lead On Unknown Girl

Omaha (AP)—Authorities said Wednesday they believed they had one of their best leads yet to the identity of a teenage girl who was found wandering near Abbott Drive here May 22.

The girl, apparently Mexican or Indian has been completely uncommunicative. She has not given her name or home town and police say she is unresponsive to questions.

Jack Dabney, clinical psychologist at County Hospital where the girl is under observation, said he had a telephone call from a woman in San Antonio, Tex., who had read about the girl and believes the girl may be her daughter, Elvira Felan, missing more than 2 months.

Elvira has been hospitalized twice in the past she she suddenly became mut attended a Missouri convent from September to December last year, planning to become a nun the woman added.

September Bride-Elect

MISS JoANN CARR

Of interest this morning is the announcement made by Dr. and Mrs. James W. Carr of Seward of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter JoAnn, to R. Paul Hoff, son of Mrs. Charles W. Hoff of Omaha, formerly of Lincoln, and the late Mr. Hoff.

The wedding, planned for Saturday, Sept. 6, will take place in Seward.

Miss Carr attended the University of Nebraska, where she is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, and was graduated from the University of Nebraska School of Nursing in Omaha.

Mr. Hoff attended Omaha University, where he is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, and now is attending the University of Nebraska College of Medicine and is serving as president of Phi Rho Sigma. Mr. Hoff is externing at Lincoln General Hospital this summer.

Candlelight Service Wednesday

At a 7 o'clock service on Wednesday evening, Aug. 6, Miss Carolyn Jean Fults, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hale Fults, became the bride of William G. Benjamin, son of Mrs. Edith Gulish of Worcester, Mass. The wedding was solemnized at the Wesley Methodist Church in Worcester by the Rev. Donald Anderson.

Miss Mary Ann Benjamin, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor and wore a waltz-length frock in pastel blue and carried white rosebuds. Lighting the candles was Miss Patricia Benjamin, also a sister of the bridegroom.

Serving as best man was Jim Phillip, Worcester, and Tom Fults of Lincoln, brother of the bride, seated the guests.

The bride appeared in a gown of white eyelet nylon over taffeta in the danseuse length. A wide V neckline accented the short-sleeved basque, and the full skirt was snugly sashed with taffeta. Her short veil of illusion was held by a bandeau of pleated tulle, and she carried a cascade of pink roses.

MRS. WILLIAM G. BENJAMIN

Mr. Benjamin, who formerly was stationed at the Lincoln Air Force Base, and his bride will reside at Worcester. Mrs. Benjamin is a member of PEO and Job's Daughters.

Names That Make The Morning News

—have several names we wish to mention this morning—Beverly Buck's, for instance. Miss Buck, as you already know, is to marry Jack Pollock on Saturday, Sept. 13.

This morning announcement is made of the embers of the bridal entourage, and we learn that Miss Buck has chosen her fiance's sister, Miss Judy Pollock of Washington D.C. as her maid of honor, and that the bridesmaids will be Miss Anne Pickett and Miss Suzie Swingle.

Jim Pollock of Pilger will serve his brother as best man, and the ushers will be Glenn Buck, Jr., brother of the bride; Veldon Lewis and Bruce Robinson, both of Fremont.

* * *

—on Saturday Miss Buck will go to Omaha where, at a picnic supper for which Miss Cindy Zschau and Miss Sylvia Rigg will be hostesses, she will share honors with Miss Jeanne Gartner whose marriage to Gene Haman will be solemnized on Aug. 16. Invited to the party, which will be held at the home of Miss Zschau, are Kappa Alpha Theta sisters of the brides-elect and their hostesses. Miss Buck and Miss Gartner will be presented with an electrical appliances shower.

* * *

—another name which brings to mind a variety of festive affairs is that of Miss Kay Lawson whose marriage to Stephen Finn will take place on Aug. 23. The current week has been dotted generously with courtesies for the soon-to-be bride, and the first of the new series began on Tuesday when Miss Lawson was complimented at a surprise coffee and "sweet" shower at the home of Mrs. Levi Gay.

* * *

—this evening Miss Lawson and Mr. Finn will share honors at a dinner for which Mr. and Mrs. Sigfried North and Mrs. R. R. Robinson will be host and hostesses at Hillcrest Club, and on Saturday Miss Lawson will be honored when Mrs. Emily Childress and Mrs. Arvid Olson are luncheon hostesses at the University Club. The bride-elect will be presented with a hostess gift.

On Sunday Miss Lawson will go to Omaha where a Delta Delta Delta sorority sister, Mrs. Gerald Rounsborg, will be hostess at a pottery shower in prenuptial courtesy to the bride-to-be.

* * *

—the name Mrs. Paul Pflasterer will strike a responsive chord in the memories of many Lincoln people—especially those in Alpha Chi Omega circles. Mrs. Pflasterer, the former Donna Folmer, and her daughters Linda and Lori will come from Wakeeney, Kan., on Saturday to spend several weeks as the guests of Mrs. Pflasterer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Folmer. The Pflasterer threesome also will spend some time in Crete with Mr. Pflasterer's mother, Mrs. Mildred Pflasterer.

—the name of Arthur V. Kelly is well known to the University Club membership—and this morning Mr. and Mrs. Kelly announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Jorraine, to Daniel C. Sullivan, son of Mrs. Emma Sullivan of Menlo Park, Calif.

The wedding is planned for Aug. 16, and the ceremony will be solemnized at Holy Family Church.

Miss Kelly is a graduate of St. Catherine's School of Nursing in Omaha, and her fiance is attending Creighton University College of Dentistry.

A Briefing For AFS Parents

On Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morrison were host and hostess to the couples who will be acting as foster parents to the new group of American Field Service students due to arrive in Lincoln this month.

On hand for the evening of instruction and discussion were (seated in foreground, from left) Mrs. Fred Akin, Mrs. James Strauss, Mrs. William G. Dick, Mrs. Kenneth Dodge, Mrs. Lloyd Teale and Mrs. Donald Pace; (seated, second row) Mrs. A. James Ebel and Mrs. Corwin Moore; (standing) Dr. Pace, Mr. Teale, Mr. Strauss, Mr. Dodge, Mr. Moore and Dr. Akin.

Dear Abby . . .

Speak Up, Friend!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who has a 12-year-old daughter who isn't even five feet tall and I'll bet this kid weighs over 200 pounds. My friend says a growing girl has to eat so she lets her eat half a cherry pie with a quart of milk at one sitting. I have seen this same child put away six pork chops with half a bottle of chili sauce, and six slices of bread. Maybe it's none of my business, but if you were me would you say anything? The child has a pretty face, but she is in such bad shape they can hardly find clothes to fit her.

SILENT FRIEND

DEAR SILENT: A real friend shouldn't remain silent any longer. No child needs food in these amounts to "grow." The mother should take this youngster to a doctor immediately. The "reason" for over-eating is an illness in itself, which can be cured.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I am in my late thirties. There is a man about 50 who is interested in me. He says he loves me but can't see me in public as he has to protect me from some woman he has been going around with for about 15 years. Should I go with other fellows or stick with him? Please advise me.

HIDING OUT

DEAR HIDING: Protect YOU or HIMSELF? He sounds like a pretty shady character. There's no future in seeing a man who can't take you out in public. Lose him.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I want to ask you a question. If Santa Claus brings us the presents, and the Good Lord gives us our daily bread, and the stork brings the babies, what do we need men for?

LITTLE GIRL

DEAR LITTLE GIRL: When the present is the wrong size, the bread stale, and the babies don't turn out so well—we have to have somebody to blame.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Honored

Mrs. Russell Carriker was hostess at her home Tuesday evening to members of Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, honoring Mrs. Leslie Ronk and Mrs. Jack Hanna. The evening hours were spent informally, and a shower of baby gifts were presented to the two honorees by the 12 guests.

The wedding will be an event of Saturday, Aug. 23, and the ceremony will be solemnized at Grace Methodist Church.

Summer--Busy Season In Suburbia

PARK VALLEY HEIGHTS

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Herbert in Park Valley Heights were Mrs. Herbert's sister, Mrs. E. H. McFall and her children, Glen and Gail of Morganton, N. C., and Mrs. McFall sister-in-law, Mrs. John Alverson of Spartanburg, S.C.

Bethany Park will be the setting on Friday morning for a gala "picnic" brunch at which Mrs. Delbert Leigh will be hostess. A number of her suburban friends and their children have been invited to the 10 o'clock affair. affair.

A family foursome—Mr. and Mrs. Jack Legler and their children, Lori and Jill drove to Schuyler last week end for the wedding of Mrs. Lillian Krivhlovek who became the bride of Mrs. Legler's brother, Jerry Svec. The ceremony was solemnized at St. Mary's Catholic Church on Saturday morning.

During the week end the Leglers were house guests of the children's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Svec and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Legler.

EASTBOROUGH

There seems to be no lag in activity at the Gordon Culver home this summer. First of all we want to introduce the recent addition to the family who is Robert Wayne Culver. Young Robert, who has two brothers and a sister, Alan, Stephen and Janis, arrived at Bryan Memorial Hospital on July 19 His grandparents are W. P. Culver of Yale, Okla., and Mrs. Nellie Mitchell.

And of special concern to the Culver family was the graduation ceremony at the University of Nebraska last Friday evening when Mr. Culver received his doctorate in secondary education. Arriving for the festivities were Mr. Culver's father, W. P. Culver, and his sisters, Mrs. Ernest Newland of Tulsa, Okla., Mrs. Carl Rogers of Pauhuska, Okla., and Mrs. George Bradley of Pawnee, Okla.

Farewells are in order this ayem for Mr. and Mrs. Loren Nelson and their children, Marcia and Lynn, who soon will be departing from the suburb. We understand that Mr. Nelson left on Monday to settle in the new home at Oklahoma City, Okla., and will be joined by his family later this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Haith and their children, Barby and Butch, recently entertained guests who were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Steinbronn of Elrose, Saskatchewan, Canada; and Mrs. Steinbronn's brother, Dick Kolkman of Cheyenne, Wyo. In courtesy to the threesome Mr. and Mrs. Haith recently were host and hostess at a barbecue supper and swimming party.

Also learned that Mr. and Mrs. Haith were host and hostess at a family dinner and swimming party last Sunday when their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hansen of Omaha, and Mrs. Haith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Fifer.

Recently traveling to the suburb from Santa Monica, Calif., were Mrs. Morris Drew and her children, Cindy and Bradley. The threesome are vacationing at the home of Mrs. Drew's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilkinson.

Speaking of vacations brings to mind the recent trip made by Lt. and Mrs. James Bertram and their two Children, Alan and Cindy. The travelers were gone for three weeks during which time they visited Lt. Bertram's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Bertram at Rochester, N.Y.

Heard that Mrs. John Robson and Mrs. Robert Longman recently were cohostesses at the Robson home when they entertained at a bridge party to honor Mrs. Keith Fitch of Syracuse, N.Y. Mrs. Fitch who will be remembered as the former Marilyn Harms and a member of Sigma Kappa sorority at the University, is visiting Dr. and Mrs. Leonard Fitch and other family members.

Mention of the Longmans reminds us that Miss Sue Longman was complimented at an afternoon party on July 10 in celebration of her fifth birthday anniversary. Seven guests were invited to the gala event.

And recent guests at the Longman home were Mr. and Mrs. Bill McGlaughen of Davenport, Ia., and Alfred Schadt and his fiance, Miss Marilyn Andersen, both of Kearney.

Stan Delaplane's POSTCARD

Our father is on vacation. He said: "Vacation is just like any other time. Only everybody thinks all you have to do is drive people around like a blooming chauffeur and write, too."

We forgot to buy hair spray. He drove us down to the drugstore to get some. He is very grumpy. We hope vacation will end soon.

☆ ☆ ☆

Our father said: "If you ever marry a column writer, be sure you get one who has a dodge where there are plenty of guest columnists. Otherwise, he will be worn out ere the bloom is off his youth."

We do not intend to marry a column writer. We will marry a farmer. One who has horses we can ride.

Our Father said he wishes he had a column on books. He said: "It is one of the best ways to get guest columnists. Because everybody has an idea he is a book critic. Also they will work for nothing plus a free book."

We said it is easy to write a column. Because there are lots of things to write about.

He looked at us in a queer way and said: "What have I done to deserve this viper in my bosom?"

He is wild! I mean, go-lly! We hope his vacation will end soon.

☆ ☆ ☆

For our vacation we went down in the Cachagua valley.

We went to a dance the other night. Our Father had to drive us. He moaned and groaned and said he intended to resign and become a taxi driver. Only with a meter on the car and get paid for it.

Nobody can speak to him when he is on vacation.

He sits at the typewriter and tears paper out of it and throws it in the basket and makes the funniest noises.

He says he wishes he was a saloon columnist. He would sit all day in a cool saloon and on vacation he would pick important people out of the saloon and they would write guest columns.

He said that is the way they do it at Toots Shor's in New York. And he said he knows half a dozen writers he bets cannot write their own names any more because they are so loaded with guest columnists.

☆ ☆ ☆

Our Father said it is a good idea to write "we" when you are writing like this. He said: "It sounds like you have two heads."

We are 15 at last! Some people treat us like an individual. Not like a child. Not our Father, though. We tried to tell him politely. He said, heartily: "Mind your manners. You are spilling the soup." Gosh!

Fiasco Said 'Grudge Affair;' Stone Defends Action

Lincoln general manager Dick Wagner Wednesday night was still trying to assess the damage caused when Umpires Bill Gentry and Max Stone forced the Chiefs and Colorado Springs to play in the mud before an empty house late Tuesday night after nearly an inch of rain hit Sherman Field.

Stone

And Umipre Stone stoutly defended the actions which gave Western League baseball here one of its worst black eyes.

Both Lincoln and Sky Sox officials labeled the fiasco which invalidated the rain checks which the fans thought would be good when they departed for home after more than an hour's delay — "a grudge affair" because of the run-in Stone and Gentry had at Colorado Springs earlier in the year.

Stone told The Star Wednesday that he had worked much muddier games at Colorado Springs earlier in the year, one of which led to a rhubarb when he wanted to postpone and the Sky Sox officials wanted to play. President O. M. Hobbs removed Stone and Gentry from Colorado Springs after that fight.

"It was very muddy there, and they didn't want to spend time sanding the field as Dick Wagner's crew did in Lincoln last night," Stone said.

Actually, Wagner's crew didn't want to sand either, but the umpires gave them no choice. Both Wagner and Basgall wanted to postpone the game and urged Stone and Gentry to do so, but to no avail.

"The damage to our sod—which has taken 4 years to develop into a fine infield—will run into several hundred dollars," Wagner said. "And we were hurt a great deal by other factors.

"Actually, the financial loss can be quite heavy and we can't afford it," he continued. "It was a special night (each club is allowed one with every club in the league) and we had to give Colorado Springs $200. If we hadn't played, we could have held it Wednesday night with a doubleheader and made some money."

Also giving the Chiefs concern was the rash of protests from the fans, who thought the game would be postponed and left before it was resumed at 11 p.m.

"We have had an awful lot of complaints and a lot of people are mad, but we can't do anything about it," Dick said. "The umpires have complete charge after the game starts."

In defending the farce, Stone said, "It was no picnic for us either. We were up as late as anyone else and got just as muddy. But both Gentry and I were in full accord that the game should be played. The weather report indicated more rain was expected Wednesday and there was a chance Wednesday night's game would be rained out.

"However, if this had not been Colorado Springs' last trip to Lincoln we would have postponed the game."

Stone, who has had a stormy career in Lincoln and who was given a "night" here last year, admitted there was ill-feeling between himself and Frank Scalzi, manager of the Sky Sox.

"I admit that a state of war exists between Scalzi and myself," he told The Star. "He continually is harassing me on calls made weeks ago and it just isn't possible for me to treat him with the respect given the other 7 managers in the league."

Scalzi termed the game "pathetic" and a "disgrace to organized baseball in Lincoln . . . and it wasn't Lincoln's fault.

"You've lost fans over this deal you can never regain," he said.

Scalzi also insisted that the umpires made the teams play in order to "get even with us for what happened at Colorado Springs.

"Max told several of my players 'we'll play this game because of a certain incident that occurred in Colorado Springs,' " Scalzi said.

Stone told The Star he accepted full responsibility for the anger of the fans generated here over the game.

"Dick Wagner did not want to play, but he didn't argue with me. Although I respect his judgment very much, I felt the game should be played. I always try to co-operate with Wagner because he does a big league job."

Stone denied that the field was in a condition that was dangerous for the players.

"Anyone that accuses me of not being concerned with the safety of the players is a liar," he said. "The pitcher's mound and the batter's box were both well-sanded and in good condition, and those are the danger spots."

On the subject of field damage, Stone said, "This distressed me but it couldn't be helped. There's still a pennant to be won and the games must be played."

Lincoln officials were convinced that it could have been helped, but had to settle for another headache.

Braves' Rookie Willey Stops Bucs On 3 Hits

Pirates Dropped Eight Games Behind Pacers

Milwaukee (AP)—Rookie righthander Carl Willey faced the Pittsburgh Pirates for the 1st time Wednesday night and stopped them in their tracks on 3 hits while the National League - leading Milwaukee Braves rolled to a 2-1 victory on Hank Aaron's 2-run homer.

The smooth-working Willey was in control all the way, allowing only 4 Pirates to get on base as he took his 6th victory against half as many defeats. He struck out 7 and allowed one walk.

The defeat dropped the hopeful Pirates 8 games back in 3rd place.

All the scoring came on homers, the Pirates getting their run as Bill Virdon clouted his 6th swinging on the 2nd pitch of the game. Aaron's 25th of the campaign came in the same inning, and scored Red Schoendienst, on with a single.

With Al Beebe

Star Sports Staff Writer

During the past basketball season, this space carried on an argument with Homer Gordon of Lincoln concerning double-elimination basketball tournaments.

Mr. Gordon won the argument.

I received another letter from Gordon this week, with his attention turned elsewhere, this time to chess. He has recently become interested in the game, and is a member of the Lincoln Chess Club and also of another smaller group in northeast Lincoln during the summer months.

"This time I am writing to ask if you could make room in the sports section for some chess news."

This brings up an old newspaper problem. Large newspapers such as the New York Times generally carry full chess news in their sports sections, but the amount of chess news sent on the news wire is negligible, and is usually on the regular news wire rather than the sports wire.

On The Star, what chess news there is is handled on the regular news side, rather than sports. It is easy to see why chess news is often crowded out. With space limitation such as are always present on a newspaper, the space must be given to news which will interest the majority of the readers.

And chess, though it is growing immensely in popularity, is still of interest to only a small portion of this newspaper's readers. In New York, not only is the total number of chess fans greater, but also the percentage of reader interest is greater.

Whether chess be classified as a sport is another old problem. If sport is defined as "entertainment," then chess would certainly qualify. The magazine, Sports Illustrated, often runs chess features and has a regular feature on the card game of bridge.

In my opinion, however, sport should be defined more as athletics, rather than strictly entertainment. That leaves chess, bridge, etc., out of the sports section, since it is not physical athletics, although there is a great amount of mental gymnastics.

Sky Sox Shellack Lincoln

Rhubarb Spices WL Contest

Colorado Springs whacked the Lincoln Chiefs, 14-7, at Sherman Field Wednesday night in a free-swinging contest that was highlighted by another Max Stone rhubarb and a Sky Sox protest.

Frank Scalzi's western sluggers pounced on Al Jackson for a pair of runs in each of the first 4 innings and the Chiefs could never catch up.

It was during the big Lincoln 5th that Wednesday fireworks erupted.

Scalzi had made a trip to the mound to visit Grant, but Stone ordered Dixon into the game before Scalzi got to the mound the second time.

Stone ruled he had gone out twice and ordered Dixon to the mound. This prompted a heated argument and Stone banished 3 Sky Sox for benchjockeying.

Scalzi then announced he was playing the game under protest.

The game may have been a costly one for the Chiefs. Second baseman Buddy Pritchard suffered a severe stone bruise on his right heel in the 2nd inning and will be out of action for several days.

Smoke Signals . . . Umpire Stone was involved in a pregame hassle with a fan. Stone was sitting in the grandstand watching batting practice and a fan was heckling him. The umpire and the fan got together for some heated words, but no punches were thrown

Elliott Runs 3:54.5 Mile

Fantastic Time Shatters All Previous Records

Dublin, Ireland (AP)—Herb Elliott, the Australian boy wonder, ran the mile Wednesday in 3:54.5.

His phenomenal time was nearly 3 seconds faster than anyone has ever done before. Three other men in the epic race also were under the recognized world record of 3:58 held by John Landy of Australia, and the 5th place finisher bettered 4 minutes.

They were Merv Lincoln of Australia, 2nd in 3:55.9; Ron Delany of Ireland and Villanova, 3rd in 3:57.5; and Murray Halberg of New Zealand, 4th also in 3:57.5; Albert Thomas of Australia, 5th in 3:58.6.

The fantastic lap times were :58 for the 1st quarter, 1:58 for the half, 2:59 for the 3 quarters and the mile in 3:54.5. That means Elliott ran his last lap in :55.5.

The crowd of 20,000 Irishmen went wild, screaming from start to finish. They had come to see their hero. Delany, winner of the Olympic 1,500 meter crown, but they cheered for Elliott when he won.

There seemed little doubt but that Elliott's great mark would be accepted as a world record. Britain's Derek Ibbotson has a pending mark of 3:57.2, but this is under a cloud because of charges he was paced.

No one could say that this race was paced, with the 5 great runners all closely bunched through the sizzling early stages.

So fresh was he when he finished his race that he ran an extra lap to receive the plaudits of the crowd, and then spoke over the loud speaker system.

"Conditions were perfect," he said. "The race was run at a terrific pace and I must thank the wonderful, enthusiastic Irish crowd for their terrific applause on my last lap."

Thomas, the young Australian who holds the world 3 mile record, set the early pace, with Lincoln at his heels and Elliott in 3rd position. Elliott challenged in the 2nd lap, and Delany—who often hung far back in his American indoor victories—moved up to within a few feet of the leaders.

Lincoln took the lead in the 3rd lap, with Elliott close behind, and Delany in a challenging position. Then when the bell sounded for the furious last lap, Elliott jumped out in front. By the 2nd bend, he began to pile up open space on the field and at the end he was a good 15 yards in front of Lincoln.

Glenn Davis Smashes World Mark In 400-Meter Hurdles

Budapest (AP) — America's Glenn Davis broke the world record Wednesday in the 400 meter hurdles and probably set another world mark by winning his 8th race in 11 days against major opposition.

The blond, pugnosed quartermiler from Columbus, Ohio, ran the 400 meter hurdles in :49.2 to take three-tenths of a second off the accepted world mark that he himself set 2 years ago.

He stumbled and hit the final hurdle to miss breaking the 49 second mark.

The victory came in a track meet among athletes of the United States, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, which the United States dominated by winning 23 out of 30 events.

Since July 27 when the touring American track team first appeared in Moscow, Davis has won every race he entered.

He has run 400 meter flat races, 400 meter hurdles, and anchored the winning 600 meter relay teams. He has competed against runners from Communist Russia, Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

American Coach George Eastment said it was "extremely unlikely that any other runner ever ran so many races in such a short time against such opposition as we have seen on this trip.

"Davis is the most versatile runner alive today."

No Action Planned Against PCL Fighters

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—The Pacific Coast League said Wednesday it will not take any action against 2 Phoenix Giants baseball players who staged a brawl aboard an airliner.

The players — outfielder Dusty Rhodes and pitcher Joe Margoneri — were fined an undisclosed amount by the Giants. The club said Rhodes and Margoneri had apologized and once again were "the best of friends."

9 Added To Turf Hall Of Fame

Saratoga Springs, N. Y. (AP)—Nine great names in horse racing, topped by Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, jockey Eddie Arcaro and the immortal Seabiscuit, are to be added to the Turf's Hall of Fame this month.

Other trainers elected were Ben A. Jones, now general manager of the world famous Calumet Farm, and Hirsch Jacobs, leading New York trainer for 21 of the past 25 years.

Joining Arcaro on the jockey list were Johnny Longden and Willie Shoemaker. Other horses added to the Hall of Fame room were Equipoise and War Admiral.

Split In Athletics

Camp Ripley, Minn. (AP) — Iowa supremacy in wrestling and Nebraska dominance in boxing was displayed at the annual athletic championships staged by the Iowa-Nebraska National Guard 34th Infantry Division.

Iowa took 21 of a possible 27 points in wrestling, in boxing Nebraska scored 20 of the possible 27 points and won 7 of the 9 titles.

Conferees OK Compromise Reciprocal Trade Extension Plan

Washington (AP) — A Senate-House conference committee agreed on a compromise to extend the reciprocal trade program 4 years and give the President authority to cut tariffs 20%.

This falls short of the 5-year, 25% bill asked by President Eisenhower but not so short that he was not expected to accept it.

The outlook was for quick, final approval by the House, Senate and White House, thereby removing one more obstacle in the road to adjournment of Congress.

Members of the conference committee decided, after a week of arguing, to retain a House amendment permitting congressional review of disputed tariff cuts.

May Override

This says that if the President disapproves recommendations of the tariff commission for import quotas or higher tariffs to protect a domestic industry, Congress may override him and uphold the commission by a two-thirds vote of both House and Senate.

Under the 24-year-old program, the President is authorized to reduce tariffs on foreign goods if foreign nations reduce their tariffs on U.S. goods. Such agreements have been negotiated regularly.

The program has been backed by Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman and Eisenhower as an important bulwark to world peace through increased world trade. Critics have said it has permitted cheap imports to harm American business and labor.

5-Years

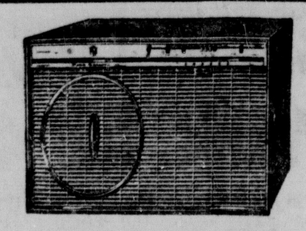

The House had voted to extend the program 5 years, the Senate had voted for 3 years. The House had voted the President authority to cut tariffs an additional 25%; the Senate had sought to hold it to 15% at the rate of 5% a year.

The conference agreement provides that all of the 20% authorized reductions must be used within the 4 years, or they will lapse, but does not require that they be held to a yearly 5% rate.

WEATHER AHEAD

Temperatures for the next 5 days will average near normal over Nebraska with only minor day to day changes. Normal afternoon highs range from the upper 80s to near 90, and normal morning lows from the middle to upper 50s to middle 60s. Precipitation is expected to average over an inch in central and eastern Nebraska and .50 to .75 inch in extreme western Nebraska, occurring as occasional showers or thunderstorms throughout most of the period.

NU Studies Europe Art Center Ideas

Geske And Smith Are Now On Trip

In an effort to make the proposed $2.5 million Sheldon Art Galleries one of the finest of its kind in this country, the University of Nebraska is planning to draw upon the experiences of the world-famous European art centers.

Norman Geske, director of University galleries, and Linus Burr Smith, professor of architect for the University's planning division, are now in Europe. Both trips are being financed by the Woods Charitable Fund through the University of Nebraska Foundation.

The 2 men are interested in the "art of displaying art," one from an art director's viewpoint and the other from an architect's viewpoint.

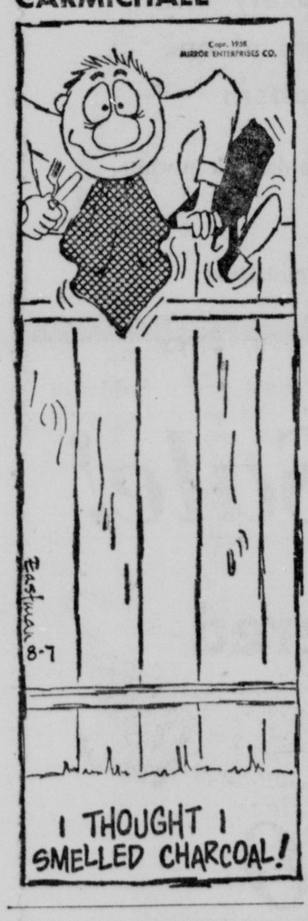

Prof. Smith is visitng the museums in London, Brussels, Amsterdam, Copenhagen, Munich, Vienna, Athens, Paris, and Rome, including the Capodimonte National Museum, which was reopened last year outside of Naples.

He plans to talk with the Museum directors and planners concerning lighting, both natural and artificial; furnishings, and methods of eliminating museum fatigue.

Mr. Geske has been in Europe since the latter part of June. Before returning in September, he plans to visit museums in Paris, Rome, Florence, Venice, Vienna, Munich, Frankfurt, Hamburg, Brussels and London.

Preliminary plans for the Sheldon Art Galleries are expected to be complete by late winter. The architect is Philip C. Johnson of New York City, noted American architect.

24-Hour Balloon Test Set

AF Captain To Ride In Upper Stratosphere

Minneapolis (AP)—A nervy Air Force captain plans to ride a balloon into the upper stratosphere next week and remain there for 24 hours while medics on the ground study his reaction to conditions in space.

Capt. Grover J. Schock, of the Air Force's space biology branch will be alone in the sealed gondola. He will seek to reach an altitude of more than 100,000 feet.

Weather permitting, the flight will be launched Tuesday morning from a deep, open-pit iron mine near Crosby, in northern Minnesota. The Air Force, said the "Manhigh III" test will be a major step in gathering human factors information needed before a man can be placed in orbit.

The aluminum capsule will be jammed with instruments and Schock's reaction will be telemetered to medical officers on the ground.

Test Surgeon

Project officer and flight surgeon for the test is Lt. Col. David G. Simons, himself a record-breaking aeronaut and chief of the Air Research and Development Command's Missile Development Center Field Laboratory at Holloman Air Force Base, New Mexico.

Last August Simons rose to 102,000 feet, a record altitude, during a 32-hour "Manhigh II" balloon flight. That journey showed that a space-equivalent situation was possible and feasible, Simons said.

Lt. Gen. S. E. Anderson, ARDC commander, said Simons' flight 20 miles into the sky established problem areas which man must study before attempting his initial flight into space.

Said Simons, "from the second Manhigh flight we learned what we have to study. Now, we are going to study the problems themselves."

He stressed that the experiment will aid in laying groundwork in the study of hermetically sealed life-supporting capsules for possible future manned satellite experiments.

A psychiatrist, Capt. George Ruff of the ARDC's Wright Air Development Center, Dayton, Ohio, will periodically question the balloonist by radio. Capt. Schock will be asked to evaluate his own condition.

13 Pass State's Written Exam For CPA Certificate

Thirteen candidates have passed a recent written certified public accountant examination, State Auditor Ray C. Johnson announced Wednesday.

The successful candidates were:

William E. Daugherty of Lincoln; Robert S. Franke of Grand Island; Rodney D. Beck, Harold A. Buesing, James W. Goodrich, Martin J. Lehr, Carl R. H. Nelson, J. William Tighe and Charles E. Trussell, all of Omaha; Clarence A. Black of Stillwater, Okla.; Richard C. Pearson of Portland, Ore.; Sol B. Stiss of El Paso, Tex., and Reuben R. Wagner of Moscow, Ida.

Johnson, who also is secretary of the Nebraska State Board of Public Accountancy created by the 1957 Legislature, said the new CPAs passed a uniform examination which was prepared with the co-operation of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

The examination, he said, was administered to approximately 10,000 candidates in 48 states, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii and the Virgin Islands.

Seward 4-H Leader Wins Chicago Trip

. . . First Nebraska Adult To Receive Award

Seward, Neb.—A volunteer 4-H clothing leader, Mrs. Carl Gade of Seward County, has made history in Nebraska 4-H club circles by being named winner of an expense-paid trip to the 1958 National 4-H Club Congress, Dec. 3, at Chicago.

State 4-H officials said it marks the first time a volunteer club leader has won a trip to the Congress in that capacity. Adult leaders from Nebraska attending previous Congresses have gone in the capacities of either 4-H alumnae or chaperones for club member delegates.

Mrs. Gade, who has been a 4-H leader for 5 years, is one of 4 women from throughout the U.S. who will be recognized at the annual banquet held during the Congress. It will be her first trip to National Congress.

Mrs. Gade's club has 19 members, with 16 taking clothing projects. She has a daughter, Barbara; and son, Ron, in 4-H work. Ron is carrying 3 projects in dairy and Barbara is enrolled in the "dress-up dresses" project and is a junior leader.

Mrs. Gade was cited for doing an outstanding job with the 4-H clothing leader program; "Getting the Most Out of Your Sewing Machine."

Weather Erased Panhandle Wheat Protein Bonus

Sidney, Neb. (AP) —A month ago, western Nebraska farmers thought they might be in for some bonus payments for high protein wheat harvested this year.

But the weather took care of that.

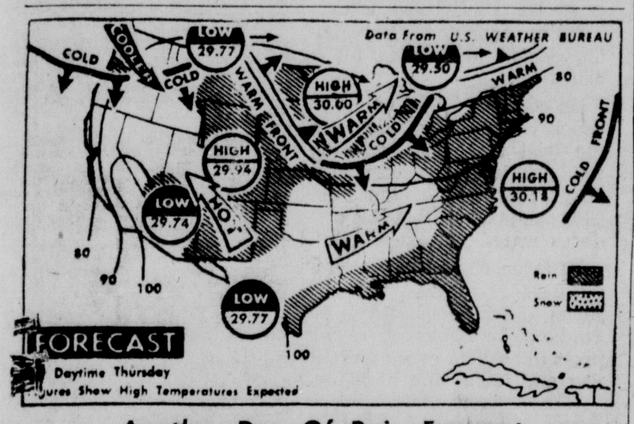

Reports from elevators in the Panhandle say protein of most of the wheat marketed in the past 10 days has run from 9 to 12%. It takes a content above 12% before millers start making premium offers for wheat.

A few loads were received at the very beginning of the harvest in the first week of July which ran above 12%. But when the rain persisted, and the harvest was delayed, the quality of the wheat took a beating. Grain which tested 62 and 63 lbs per bushel shrunk to 57 and 58 pounds. This was general across the entire Panhandle.

A few years ago western Nebraska wheat was running abnormally high in protein content and millers were beating a path to the door of the Panhandle farmer. This brought premium payments which hiked the value of the crop.

Just what happened in the intervening years to cut the protein percentage is a debatable point. No one seems fully informed on why wheat does or does not have high protein.

However, grain men and elevator operators agreed this year that the weather was the culprit.

Another Day Of Rain Forecast

There will be showers and thundershowers Thursday in the Plains states, the Great Lakes region, the Gulf states and the east coast. Most of the country will have warm weather except for hot and humid weather in the southwest and some cooler temperatures in the far northwest. Clear and sunny skies will be the rule over most of the country. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Denied By Russ

London (AP) — Moscow Radio said impressions in the West that a summit conference has been ruled out by the latest Soviet proposal for a U.N. General Assembly meeting are false and absolutely incorrect.

"The Soviet Union," a Moscow commentator said in an English language broadcast, "urges that everything should be done so that this conference, which is everywhere eagerly awaited, should not be postponed indefinitely."

Farrar Will Join Faculty At Wilber

Lincoln Star Special

Wilber, Neb. — Ralph L. Farrar of Lincoln has been elected principal of Wilber High School for the coming fall term. For the past two and a half years he taught in the Millard Lefler Junior High School at Lincoln.

Farrar received his elementary education in the Barneston Consolidated School, attended the Red Cloud High School and was graduated from Nebraska Wesleyan. He taught one semester in the Nebraska State Reformatory for Men.

Last week Farrar received his master of education degree in school administration from the University of Nebraska.

—STAGE SET FOR U.N. TALKS ON MIDEAST—

Ike Willing To Attend Session

Washington (AP)—President Eisenhower said Wednesday he personally might attend an emergency session of the United Nations General Assembly on the Middle East if he thought it necessary or desirable.

Eisenhower also called on Russia to co-operate with the United States through the U. N. to develop new economic-political programs to safeguard the turbulent Mideast.

At a news conference, he stressed a need for positive economic steps, but expressed readiness to discus such controversial issues a guaranteeing of frontiers and neutralizing the area.

"Troops are never going to win the peace," Eisenhower said. "We have got to do something positive and this must be in the field of moral, spiritual, economic and political strengthening of all these areas."

Eisenhower quickly had agreed to a suggestion from Russian Premier Khrushchev that the Mideast situation should be discussed at an emergency meeting of the 81-nation General Assembly rather than at a summit session of the U. N. Security Council.

Public Will Rebel

President Eisenhower said the American buying public will rebel and cause real trouble unless labor goes easy on wage demands and businessmen refrain from "robbing the public."

Eisenhower spoke out spiritedly on this point at his news conference.

He showed much more concern about inflationary trends than he did about the economic downturn—which has brought him, he said, a constant stream of day-and-night problems. He added quickly, however, that his doctors say he is in good shape.

On other points, Eisenhower said:

1. He hasn't changed his mind about Sherman Adams. A woman reporter nettled Eisenhower somewhat by asking how, in the light of a speech he made earlier this year to the effect that government employes must be beyond reproach, he can justify retaining Adams and several other White House employes who have accepted gifts from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

Eisenhower replied crisply that he has made his position clear on the subject and will say no more.

2. He thinks Congress has a pretty good record of accomplishment on his legislative program but: "I am not yet satisfied, and they are not through yet."

Ex-Nebraskan Seeks Father

Fairbury, Neb (AP)—A former Nebraskan, Floyd Stewart, 34, of Charlotte, Mich., is attempting to locate his father whom he last saw 27 years ago.

Being sought is Floyd Stewart, about 54, a painter and paperhanger by trade.

The younger Stewart was wounded in the Korean fighting and has been in poor health since.

Stewart and his sister lost track of their father in 1931 when their parents separated. He was living in Lincoln at the time.

The elder Stewart's wife is a resident of Fairbury.

To Visit Farm

Washington (UPI) — President Eisenhower tentatively plans to spend the weekend at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm, the White House said.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President hoped to leave here Friday afternoon by helicopter.

—HUMAN TORCH MYSTERY—

Teamster Union Bosses Quizzed

Pontiac, Mich. (UPI) — Investigators punched holes Wednesday in union boss Frank Kierdorf's statement that two strangers turned him into a human torch, and started questioning officials of James R. Hoffa's teamsters union for clues to the full story of his burning.

They sought to learn whether Kierdorf was burned accidentally, perhaps in a bombing attempt.

Michigan Attorney General Paul L. Adams took direct control of the inquiry and said "there appears to be a tie-up with Hoffa-type unionism."

"We don't know what it is," he added, "but it certainly is not the garden variety of crime."

Louis Linteau, a former vice president of Teamsters Local 614, which is under the trusteeship of Hoffa's international union, was the first union official questioned

He was followed by Frank Orsini, Hoffa-appointed trustee of the Pontiac local.

Authorities said Linteau shortly after World War II was sentenced for extortion of about $100,000 from Detroit-area contractors.

Adams moved into the case at the direction of Gov. G. Mennen Williams after chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor of Oakland County branded Kierdorf's story of being abducted and set afire as a "complete" and "deliberate" lie.

Kierdorf staggered into St. Joseph Mercy Hospital here early Monday with burns over 85% of his body. He said two mysterious strangers talked him into leaving his home at nearby Flint, took him in a car to a lonely spot, poured inflammable fluid over his body and touched a match to it.

He steadfastly refused to change his story.

Aided By Pals

Louisville, Ky. (AP)—Patrolman Emart (Skippy) Carr, stricken by cancer two years ago, had to give up working last month—but his friends in the Traffic Bureau have kept him on the pay roll.

Through a "work-a-day-for-Carr" project, fellow officers are keeping Carr's name on the active list.

In addition to working for Carr on their days off, Carr's friends have chipped in a total of $667 for the sick officer.

Carr, 43, cannot move from his bed in the hospital.

He is married and has an 11-year-old daughter.

Heavy Market Setback Caused By Late Selling

New York (AP) — A tremendous burst of selling in the final hour Wednesday gave the stock market its worst setback in almost three weeks.

The sharp drop was triggered by news of a cut of ½ cent a pound in the price of copper by custom smelters.

The market reacted with a torrent of trading which left the ticker behind transactions for 40 minutes.

The decline wiped out about $1,675,000,000 of the market value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the drop in the AP average.

Losses ran from fractions to about 2 points and were most pronounced in the copper and aluminum groups. A few scattered specialities rose fractions to around a point. Oils, strong much of the day, closed irregular.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $1.30 to $183.60, the biggest loss since a drop of $2.20 July 14. Industrials were down $2.30, rails $1.10, and utilities 20 cents.

Declines outnumbered gains 664 to 297, with 1,187 issues traded. There were 96 new 1958 highs and 7 lows.

Turnover amounted to 3,440,000 shares compared with Tuesday's 4,210,000 shares. Trading was moderate in between several spurts of activity.

The ticker ran a minute behind trading twice in the first hour, first when the market was lower, then when it was coming back.

Prices were slightly higher in early afternoon, turned mixed for a time, then plunged sharply in the late sell-off following the copper reduction. In this decline, the tape ran as much as seven minutes late, the biggest lag since Jan. 16.

Some brokers suggested the list was due for a downturn after the upsurge of the past two weeks. They noted that the market fell only moderately Tuesday on news of the hike in margin requirements from 50 to 70%.

The American Stock Exchange was lower on trading of 890,000 shares compared with Tuesday's 1,120,000 shares.

Wheat Prices Manage Gain

Chicago (AP) — Wheat futures scored their first price advance in four trading sessions on the board of trade Wednesday but corn and soybeans continued their slide. Oats and rye were narrowly irregular.

At one time all wheat contracts were up a cent a bushel or more but they barely squeaked out with small fractional gains at the finish after profit-takers had their swing. The July delivery had the extreme gain of a major fraction.

Wheat is near the season's low prices and many traders have said the market is due, if not over-due, for a bullish reaction. They had noted that commercial business, particularly on flour mill account, has been below normal for sometime and that export sales have been rather slow.

The lag in both outlets, however, had been hinged to harvest-time pressure which has been considerably less than in other recent years. But now that producers appear to have made it clear they will not sell more than relatively small amounts of the 1958 crop at current low prices, buying is expected to be resumed.

Foreign markets apparently have decided prices now are about as low as they will go because Poland was reported to have bought 750,000 bushels of red wheat overnight and is in the market for 1,400,000 more. India also is understood to be coming in for large amounts.

Wheat closed ¼-¾ cent a bushel higher, September $1.85⅛-84⅞; corn ¼-1 cent lower, September $1.27⅝-¾; oats ¼ higher to ¾ lower September 63¼-⅜; rye ½ higher to ⅜ lower, September $1.24¾; soybeans 1¾-2⅛ lower, September $2.24⅝-¾; lard unchanged to 5 cents a hundred pounds higher, September $12.70.

Grain Men From India Visit Here

A group of men, prominent in the Indian government and wheat industry, toured the Lincoln Grain Exchange and the State Capital in an abbreviated visit here.

During their stay the 4 Indian officials expressed the opinion that the United States has excellent facilities for harvesting, storing and keeping wheat.

They also noted that American farmers were much better read and educated than those of India, where many of the farmers are illiterate.

Telling of the present position of wheat in their own economy the observers noted that wheat is becoming more popular in India. In some areas of the country 70% of the caloric diet of the people is made up of wheat products.

Members of the 4-man two-week observation tour of this country are: C. A. Ramakrishnan, director general of food; B. Mukherjee, assistant regional director of food; Dr. S. V. Pingale, director of storage and inspection in the ministry of food and agriculture; and Satya Paul Virmani, vice-president, local board, Delhi area, Reserve bank of India.

State Adopts Same RR Rolling Stock Values

Last year's values per mile of the rolling stock owned by each railroad operating in Nebraska were adopted again Wednesday by the State Board of Equalization.

In other action, the Board authorized State Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington to investigate differences in Lancaster and Boone Counties on railroad terminal property valuations set by the railroads and the city assessors.

In adopting the values per mile of the rolling stock, the Board noted that they have not been changed in recent years.

Rolling stock is taxed only by municipalities but the State Board sets average value per mile of the stock.

Values Vary

The values vary for the various main and branch lines or sections of the railroads involved. Samples:

Rolling stock of the Union Pacific main line was set again at $19,429 per mile. Chicago and Northwestern main line stock was set at $3,907.

Burlington: Alliance to Wyoming, $3,548; Ashland to South Sioux City, $3,528; Holdrege to Colorado, $4,906; Nebraska City to Lincoln $4,907; Plattsmouth to Colorado, $11,061, and Oreopolis to Ashland via Omaha, $11,066.

On the matter of differences in railroad terminal property in Lancaster County, the Board noted that the Rock Island had set its value in Lincoln at $191,130, while the city assessor set it at $299,995.

The Burlington has valued its terminal property at $2,176,145 while the city assessor set the figure at $2,273,125.

In Boone County, the Union Pacific said its terminal at Albion should be valued at $12,735, while the assessor set a $34,200 figure.

Herrington was authorized to approve the assessors' figures if they are found to be reasonable. Otherwise the issue will be referred back to the Board again.

Only principal task remaining for the State Board now is to set airline values.

Reaction To Cut In Levy 'Good'—Vic

Gov. Victor Anderson said Wednesday public reaction to the reduced state property tax levy set by the State Board of Equalization last week has been "real good."

"Our people have been pleased to know that in spite of inflation, we have been able to hold the line," he said.

The board set the tangible property levy at $7.97 per one thousand dollars valuation, 26 cents lower than last year.

An increased over-all valuation of taxable property accounts for part but not all of the decrease, the governor said.

The state, he noted, "is taking a million dollars less in taxes from the people than it did 3 weeks ago."

"One of the big reasons we have been able to hold the line is that we've got real good department heads in state government," he added. "They are helping us get the most out of the tax dollar."

Gov. Anderson, a candidate for re-election, attended a Brown County diamond jubilee celebration at Ainsworth Wednesday night.

He is scheduled Thursday to attend a Nuckolls County Republican women's club picnic at Superior.
